

I'm not robot

Continue

Food for today textbook online

College can be an expensive time with an endless stream of expenses, including supplies, gadgets, housing and food. This list of costs does not even account for the ever-rising price of college tuition, which climbs 8 percent each year. While there will always be expenses associated with starting college, the internet has made it easier than ever to save money. This is especially true for college materials, such as textbooks. The bookstore on campus used to be the most important place to buy textbooks. Now there are many options for the best places to buy college textbooks online - and save a bundle. Let's look at what information you need before you get started and how to find the best deals. Top Places to Buy College Textbooks Now that you have the information for each textbook on your list, it's time to do some research. Here's our list of the best places to buy college textbooks online. 1. AbeBooks AbeBooks is a marketplace for independent sellers from all over the world. You will find millions of books, including textbooks, even international editions. The online store has been around since 1996, long before it was common to buy books online. Sellers send books straight to the buyers, eliminating the need for an intermediary. You can find used copies and older editions of textbooks often for less than brick-and-mortar locations. AbeBooks' best deals are often on international editions of textbooks. You can usually find a good bargain on these editions, even if the information is identical to the US version. If you're not happy with the book you receive, AbeBooks will give you a 30-day return window. You can get a refund in that time frame if your return is due to an error on the bookstore's page, such as the wrong book or inaccurate online description. Even if the error was at the end, it is worth contacting the seller to see if they would accept a return. If that doesn't work, you can sell the book back to AbeBooks through their buyback program. 2. AllBookstores.com If you want a good place to start your research for textbooks, check out AllBookstores.com. The site search engine scours inventory of over three dozen online bookstores to find the best discounted prices of used textbooks. You can find the books for your upcoming classes at up to 90 percent off retail prices. AllBookstores.com help you compare prices for both new and used textbooks. It will also show the cost of renting the textbook so you can decide which one is a better deal. Prices include shipping, so the price you see is the price you will pay when you check out. When you click the Buy button, they will direct you to the website of the retailer that sells the book. 3. Bookscouter Bookscouter is a new way to scout out the best price by comparing book prices across sellers. This smart app only allows you to scan the app tells you who wants to buy your book for the best price. It also allows you to scan and find your textbooks at the best price. This site is popular with students for many reasons. First, they can find their books by the seller for the best price. And then when they're done with their books, they can resell. This is one of my favorite ways to buy textbooks online. You can read more in our full review on BookScouter. 4. Amazon Did you know that Amazon sells textbooks? Few people think of the retailer as a good place to find offers on college textbooks. Not only can you buy new and used textbooks via Amazon, but you can also sell them back or rent them when you're done. You don't need Amazon memberships to order from the retailer. But if you're a Prime member, you'll have your books sent quickly as long as they come directly from the retailer. As a student, you can take advantage of a discounted version of Amazon Prime for students. Start with a six-month free trial to Amazon Student to see if you like the benefits. If you're ready to sign up, you'll pay half the price of full membership, but still get access to all Prime benefits. 5. Better World Books Better World Books was started by two students who want to sell old textbooks on the internet. While you can find more than just used textbooks through the site, it's still a good place to start. You can search for the title, author or ISBN- Shipping is free, even for international orders, which are not common with online bookstores. As a bonus, you can feel good about your purchase. Better World Books stores used books from landfills and helps fund literacy projects around the world. For every book you buy, they donate a book to someone in need. 6. BigWords If you're looking for an appointment, BigWords can be a good place to start. It is an online search engine that helps you compare textbook prices from the best online stores. You can save up to 90 percent on the books for your next class. BigWords boasts that they can find textbooks for 35 - 45 percent less than other online stores, so it's worth checking out. For those looking for a deal, BigWords is also searching the internet for coupons and discounts on online book retailers. 7. BookFinder BookFinder is another search engine that helps you compare prices for textbooks across the board. It searches for more than 100,000 bookstores worldwide, putting millions of books at ease. When you're done using your textbooks, BookFinder compares textbook buyback prices to find the best deals. It also includes shipping costs in your search. The web interface is outdated and bulky, but it serves its purpose. The site can also help find rare books or those that are out of print. 8. BooksRun Said someone free on everything? That's the promise behind BooksRun, an online book book which offers a variety of college textbooks at discounted prices. Free shipping applies to ticket buybacks, purchases and rentals. If you want to try your textbooks in an e-book format, BooksRun can help you save up to 60 percent. They have more than 430,000 titles available with more added all the time. If you go this route, you can get instant access to the textbook on your computer, tablet, or smartphone. You can search for ISBN, title, or author. Besides standard editions, BooksRun also sells international editions, which are cheaper, and teacher editions with all homework explanations. 9. CampusBooks CampusBooks is another search engine that helps you compare textbook prices and save up to 90 percent. You can search and compare prices to buy, rent or sell textbooks online sellers like Amazon, Barnes & Noble and dozens more. Try searching by name, author or ISBN or check out the ISBN barcode scanner, which can save you trouble typing all these numbers. CampusBooks will also compare the price of renting vs. buy a book to help you decide whether it makes more sense to rent or buy a textbook. It will also search local libraries and let you know if the textbook you want is available for free. When you compare prices, CampusBooks will provide you with the total price comparison, including coupons, shipping costs and VAT. This thoroughness means no surprises at checkout, and you get full price in advance. 10. CheapestTextbooks CheapestText Books started in 2001 to help students save money on college textbooks. They are seeking thousands of college textbook sellers to help you save up to 95 percent on buying or renting. Besides, they help you find free shipping, coupons and discounts so you can save even more on study materials. So you will save time while still finding rock bottom prices on college textbooks. CheapestText books also compare the prices of owning vs. rent. In addition, it will help you determine whether an eTextbook makes more sense than the print edition. When you're ready to share with your textbooks, CheapestTextbooks will search the Internet for the online stores that will offer you the most money. 11. Chegg If you are looking for an online textbook retailer that offers competitive prices, check out Chegg. You can find discounts of up to 90 percent of the textbook's physical retail price, saving you tens if not hundreds. Search for study materials or textbooks using the title, author, or ISBN. Chegg will also show you if there is an eTextbook version for the title you are searching for and helps you compare prices. Standard shipping is free on orders of $30 or more. Wait until the last minute to order your textbooks? Chegg offers a bonus that allows you to see the digital version of any book you free while your physical copies are on the way. This function allows you to get started with courses while you wait for your textbooks. In addition, if there is a good agreement on textbooks in your area, Chegg will show it to you. This option can be an appropriate choice if you prefer to buy your books in person instead of waiting for them to come in (snail) mail. 12. CollegeBooksDirect CollegeBooksDirect helps you find used textbooks from their inventory of more than 30,000 copies. Unlike other websites, CollegeBooksDirect only sells books from their current inventory, which means they offer same-day delivery. Keep in mind that the site is out of date, but the layout is easy to navigate. You can search for a textbook for ISBN, author, title, or keyword. Find annotated textbooks, teacher's editions, text-only textbooks, and new and used copies at affordable prices. CollegeBooksDirect sends 93 percent of orders within 2:00 PM CST on the same day they are received and 100 percent of orders for two business days. When you're done with your textbooks, CollegeBooksDirect will buy them from you. You can compare their prices with those of other online buyback retailers to find the best option. 13. eCampus Another place to find cheap textbooks online is eCampus. This site can save you up to 90 percent on new and used textbooks, eTextbooks and textbook rentals. You can search by title, author, or ISBN. Shipping is free on orders of $35 or more. They also offer a textbook warranty that allows you to return the purchase for any reason within 25 days. You can also expand or buy your rental textbook at any time. If you buy an eTextbook, you can get instant access to it. You can earn points and redeem them for rewards through the eCampus eWards rewards program. Sign-up is free and you'll have more ways to earn points. Redeem your points for discounts of up to $20 of textbooks. 14. SlugBooks SlugBooks takes buy textbooks online to the next level. The search engine allows you to compare prices at online stores that Amazon.com and AbeBooks.com with the university bookstore. You can search by name, title, or ISBN. To compare prices with your school bookstore, search for your school name and class. Search results will include new, used, rental and digital textbook sellers, giving you a variety of options. An additional feature allows you to compare multiple books, save you time and make the process easier. You can also use SlugBooks to find course materials and study materials previews for your classes. If you follow SlugBooks on social media, you can get exclusive discounts and coupons. 15. Textbooks.com With an inventory of 10 million books in stock, chances are Textbooks.com want the textbooks on your list. This is one of my favorite places to buy college textbooks online. Shipping is free on orders of USD 25 or more, except if something is not right with order, you can take advantage of the hassle-free 30-day return window. Search for textbooks by title, author, or ISBN and get results for new, used, and e-book versions so you can compare options. Some books have a 50 percent cash back guarantee, which means you can get 50 percent back if you sell your books to Textbooks.com at the end of the semester. Textbooks.com to have the best buyback program in the business, offering 30-day guaranteed quotes and free return shipping. Bonus features: 30-day guaranteed quotes and hassle-free return window, free shipping $25 or more, free return shipping, and savings up to 90% off retail prices. 16. TextbookRush With over 25 years in the book business, TextbookRush bills itself as your Online Campus Bookstore. Find new, used and international edition textbooks with free shipping on orders of $35 or more. Like other websites, TextbookRush offers savings of up to 90 percent off retail, although most books will offer more modest discounts. They have a 30-day 100 percent satisfaction guarantee and a hassle-free return policy. TextbookRush pays top dollar of more than 1 million titles to sell your textbooks to them when you're done for extra money. They also have an app available for Apple (iOS) devices to make it easier to sell your textbooks. 17. Valore Books ValoreBooks gives you the opportunity to buy or rent cheap textbooks from more than 18,000 verified sellers and rental providers. It's a marketplace where sellers compete to provide the lowest price on the books you need for college. According to ValoreBooks, the average student saves about $500 per year when buying or renting all necessary books from their marketplace. You can also sell your textbooks to them for a competitive price. Search for textbooks using the title, author, or ISBN. ValoreBooks also offers a price-match guarantee so you can rest easy to know that you can get the best price. All textbook rentals come with free shipping. You will also get a 30-day money-back guarantee without question. Check out our full ValoreBooks review for more information. Before you buy one thing you will notice when shopping for textbooks is that there are many options with similar sounding names. Need Organic Chemistry or A Textbook of Organic Chemistry? Each textbook is also revised, so you'll find several editions, each with different information. This variation is why you need to have all the necessary details before you jump online to search for the best price. For each of your classes, you'll find out the exact title for each textbook, author, edition, and INTERNATIONAL Standard Book Number (ISBN). You can find the information on your course curriculum, or by contacting the professor or teaching assistant. Having information will ensure that you buy the right textbooks. After you have the list and textbooks you need for your classes, go over to your campus bookstore to get a baseline idea of how much everything will cost. Write the title, author, edition, and ISBN number for each book. Once you have it all, you can use some of the sites above to find the best deal on your books for the semester. Find out what's most important to you — price, shipping cost and speed, choice, book condition, and so on. This list of priorities will help you narrow your choices. No matter which of the online stores above you use, you can rest assured that you have options to find the best deal on textbooks. It's a great way to shave off some of the costs of higher education. Have you bought textbooks online? What was your experience? Share your thoughts in the comments. Comments.