It should snap or pull off, but you can also use pliers. 3 Adjust the wheel. Turn the adjustment wheel all the way to the side (usually to the right). [1] 4 Turn it back to the left. Lift the tab up so that it does not touch the wheel, and turn the tab all the way back to the left. 5 Get off and repeat. You can do this several times to rotate it as much as possible. [2] 6 Turn it on. Be careful. You should get 3+ flame. You can adjust as needed. 7 Make the flame bigger. Take it up 1 revolutions by spraying the WD-40 or the engine deterror at the flame. Keep both far from the body and away from other people and flammable objects. It will bring a huge flame. [3] 1 Place rubber bands. Place two rubber bands around the spray baller. You can use a can of axe, hairsknish, whatever. 2 Place the bracket. Place the wall bracket (which should already be bent at a 90 degree angle) under the rubber bands so that it holds on to the can a little safe. 3 Get a sticky surface. Break off a bit of that plastic-tak and put it at the bottom of the candles (you can also use lighter). Alternatively, you can use chewing gum. 4 Attach it to the bracket. Attach the candle to the wall bracket using plastic or other sticky matter. [4] 5 Adjust as needed. Drown the candle wick with the tip of the spray on the spray baller. 6 Light the candle. Be careful. 7 Spraying. Do not spray against anything flammable. Be careful. 1 Get a high-quality water gun. It should be able to build and maintain pressure well, be made of high quality plastic, and hold a good amount of liquid. [5] 2 Get the metal bracket. You will need a metal bracket, either flat or L bracket depends on the gun you buy. Attach the bracket to the gun so that the flat metal comes out parallel to the ground, about 1, under the nozzle. 3 Wrap the gun. Wrap the gun around the nozzle with a snail to reveal (and exposed as little as possible). This will help keep the gun from melting. 4 Fill the gun. water reservoir with a lighter liquid. [6] 5 Add a candle. Attach the candle at the end of the bracket. You can use sticky rubber or or other than glue. 6 Light the candle. Light the candle using the desired method. 7 Shoot with a gun. Don't forget to pump it first. Add a new question to the Question What is the legal status of these improvised flamethrowers? Flamethrowers are legal in most parts of the U.S., they have only a few rules like California. Be sensible how throwing them at people, animals or dry vegetation is not legitimate and you get into big trouble if injuring someone or harming the environment and causing property loss. Question How to prevent flames from reaching the fuel reservoir? Fire it into shorter bursts if it is crawling up the stream, stop firing for a while. Question Is it good to use gasoline for a flamethrower? If you can atomize fuel (make a fine fog), then kerosene or diesel would be better. Gasoline is more flammable and more suitable to climb back into the fuel tank. Question Is there a way to get a medium burn that exits the stream? Yes, use something like Hot Shot or any WASP/hornet spray. This will bring a huge 10-15 foot flame. Question If the fuel supply is slowed, can the flame reach the fuel chamber and cause an explosion? No. You need a subtle blend of fuel and oxygen to keep the flame, and have some way to remove carbon dioxide. In most cases, the nozzle has such a small diameter that the flame will extinguish itself due to carbon dioxide. Question Do flame throwers legally use on private land if i'm not harming others or the environment? Yes, they are. The issue I have heard is that hairsort is a higher risk of causing an explosion or injury. What is something safer to use? Body spray is a good exercise. Just be sure to blow it when it's done, or it could explode. Question Is Fumes Poisonous? Fumes may not be poisonous, but they can be dangerous to your health if inhaled. Question Are Flamethrowers Legal in Texas? It is legally the same flamethrower in Texas and many other states. Question Can I repaint the water gun to make it look less cartoony? You could, but keep in mind that kids are actually being killed by the police who mistook toy guns for the real thing, so you have to be very careful about where you play with it.
