I kept reading it and ended up enjoying the book. I like how this book was short, but still good and specific. Plot: This book is about a boy named Darrell Mercer, who is a young, freshman boy. Darrell moved from Philadelphia to California because his mother worked where her brother worked. Darrell wasn't very happy with the idea because he knew he was going to be all alone at school, no one would help him or protect him like his friends did in Philadelphia. Especially with him, knowing that he was a very short, weak guy, and his uncle made sure he never forgot about it. His first night in California he had already attracted a new bully, Tyree. Tyree saw him, and made sure he knew he was the one who owned the freshman, and that if he didn't like something, he would make sure he would tackle it. Before leaving he pushed him and made fun of him. Fortunately, he met a good girl in a supermarket in the city named Amblinn. To his luck, she was also a freshman at Blueford High. There wasn't a day for Tyray to embarrass him in front of the whole class or just everyone in general. Then one day Tyray offered him a deal, saying that if he gave him $10 every Friday morning, he wouldn't hurt him, but if he didn't pay, he'd break his face in two. Poor Darrell hated giving his mother money to this bully, but he also didn't want to be embarrassed or tormented anymore, so he paid him. Despite the fact that he paid Tyray he lived in fear. Every Thursday Tyree will remind him during the English or gym that he had to pay, or he learns of the consequences. One day Darrell got tired of everything, so he went to his English teacher after he told him to go to him if he ever needed help with anything. When Darrell went to his room, he just sat there and said nothing. His English teacher respected that. He told him he looked like him when he was at the age of Darrell. He gave him a book and told him to read it. Of course, Darrell got angry because he didn't ask for a book to read. He was looking for help. Darrell read the book through the Thanksgiving break and ended up loving it. At first he was confused, but he realized it little-by-little throughout the school year. Darrell eventually joined the fight thanks to the book, at first he hated it, but he kept going because he didn't want to give up. The longer he remained in the struggle, the more he noticed his exercise was easier for him and he was getting stronger. One night at school dance, he finally courage to talk to Amberlynn after the Tai confused them both. He also noticed that he had grown taller than when they first met, and he also gained 15 pounds. Of course, there was something bad about it. Tyrei answered him to the bathroom and warned him to stay away from her by pushing him into the trash can. Darrell decided to leave the dance before becoming embarrassed again. Towards the end of the book, Darrell won his second game, and he plucked up the courage to stop paying Tyree. On Friday morning, he didn't go to the usual place and went straight into his first hour of class, and for some reason he felt more alive than ever. Tyree saw him, and he told him that he had to pay him, or he would break it in half. Of course, Darrell didn't listen to him. During lunch, Tyrei embarrassed Darrell for the last time, stumbling across him, forcing Darrell to get food throughout his life. Darrell finally had enough of him. Sure, Tyree was surprised, but he kept provoking Darrell, who forced Darrell to use his favorite wrestling move on him, which was a double-foot takedown. The fight move sent Tyree to the ground, causing his wrist to break. Forcing them to go to the director's office. There Darrell told his friends the truth and what he had to go through all year. Darrell eventually wept with joy, anger, relief and shame. The school board decided not to suspend Darrell for what he went through. Tyrea was suspended for three days. After that, Darrell was finally able to walk around school without fear, he was proud of what he had done and felt more alive than ever. Characters:Darrell: The main character Darrell - a fifteen-year-old freshman who is very small and short for his age. In Philadelphia, he had friends who looked after him and kept him safe. Darrell's father died when he was very young, so his mother should work for both of them. Since she doesn't have enough money to support their brother got her job in California, which means they have to move. Since Darrell is just a tiny, short guy with no friends, he easily attracted Tyrea to pick on him. Despite the fact that Darrell is very scared, tiny and short, he has a lot of courage to show up at school every day, even if he is terrified. To his luck, he made a new friend who was also new to this school. Throughout the book, he changes as soon as he reads, Hatchet, a book that his English teacher suggested him read. He joins the fight and goes to every practice, even if he gets exhausted after each practice. At the end of the book, he finally had enough with Tyree, so he put an end to it. Darrell didn't get into trouble, but in the end he notices that he He felt stronger, he got taller, and he finally made some good friends. Tyree: Tyree is a bully who wants things in his own way. If he doesn't get what he wants, he ensures that he and his friends fix the problem. A lot of people at Bluford High are afraid of him, especially Darrell. Tyrei is in love with Ambelinne, but since she notices that she loves Darrell, he is sure to embarrass them both so they can stop talking to each other. Since his plan doesn't work, he ensures that Darrell stays away from her. He forces other students to give him money, and tells them that he will stop embarrassing them in front of everyone. Despite the fact that Darrell pays him, he still chooses on it just for fun. Towards the end of the book, Darrell finally put him in his place and broke his wrist. Installation: This book takes place in San Diego, California. Darrell was born and raised in Philadelphia, but moved to California because his mom gets a better job. Darrell is basically at Blueford High in the book. In the book, the timing is probably in the early 2000s because of the way they explain how they dress and how the technology is used. Subject: This book has a lot of themes, but the one that I see the most is that people need to have more self-confidence. As soon as people start to believe in themselves, they succeed. Then they finally stand up for themselves. I see a radical change in Darrell. I noticed how at the beginning he complained too much about his move, leaving all his childhood friends, and how he already hated California. At the end of the book, he was stronger, more mature, and realized that it was all part of life, and he just had to accept it. Recommendation: I would recommend this book to everyone in high school. Anyone between the ages of 13 and 15 can read this book. The vocabulary is simple, as the reading level is simple. Since it was an easy book to read, I would probably also recommend this book to anyone who is afraid to speak in such a situation. ... More... More
