The IPCC course or Comprehensive Professional Competence course is the second level of certified accounting exams. A person can take the IPCC exam after undergoing CPR and nine months of study. The IPCC has a total of seven entities. CA IPCC exams are held during the May and November months of each year. The CA IPCC exam consists mainly of two groups. The first group consists of four entities, including accounting, costing and financial management, ethics and taxation. The second group consists mainly of 3 subjects, which consist of advanced accounting, audit and ITSM. The PCC is currently being converted into the IPCC. In case you are preparing for the CA Intermediate Exam, check out CA Intermediate's best books for the November 2018 exam Best Recommended CA IPCC Theme Wise Books Best recommended CA IPCC best book for self-study : Accounting Costing - Financial Management Ethics Advanced Accounting Audit ITSM CA IPCC Books free pdf download: After passing CPR, this is the second step to CA. It's a theoretical test. The student must have working knowledge in all subjects of the course. The student must score 40 points for each subject and a total of 50% of the marks. Basically students score 40 marks in each subject, but fail to make a total of up to 50%. Thus, the student must have 1-2 strong subjects in each group from which he can score 60-70 marks each. Accounts, Cost Accounts and Financial Management are subjects in which students can get good grades because these subjects are numerical, not theoretical. The second group is complex compared to the 1st group, as this group has only numerical bill paper. Such students have the opportunity to give both groups together the advantage of eating set from marks from one group to This option is not available if the student wishes to give the tests to a separate group wise. Some minor taxes are also levied by local authorities, such as the municipality. The powers to levy the tax stem from the Constitution of India, which distributes the power to collect various taxes between the Central and the State. An important limitation of these powers is article 265 of the Constitution, which states that no taxes are levied or collected except in the law. Thus, every tax levied or collected must be backed up by an accompanying law passed by either The Parliament or the State Legislature.
