Save on the Tools That Help Your Books Get Discovered, Evaluated, and Sold

Getting a manuscript through the door and getting a finished book in front of readers take time most publishing teams don't have. Bowker's family of tools helps you manage submissions more efficiently and market your titles more effectively, so you can spend less time on process and more time publishing great books.

PCPA members get 10% off Storywise through the end of 2026.

Storywise was built on the belief that every manuscript has an editor most passionate to champion it, and it's built the submissions platform to help make that happen. It ingests every manuscript that comes in, then surfaces the details that matter most (genre, logline, keywords, and comp titles), along with a developmental critique of the writing. Every submission also gets an AI usage check as part of the standard workflow. The result: a clear summary and taste match score against your own wish list for every submission, so your team can prioritize with confidence instead of digging through an inbox.

Book2Look turns your book into an interactive, searchable sample readers can explore online and gives you one place to manage every piece of your marketing campaign, from blogs and social to retailer listings and reviews. It makes your books easier to discover across retailers, bloggers, and communities, and easier to buy, all while keeping your bibliographic and promotional information under your control.
