

Hi Charlie & Jacki –

Thanks again for chatting with me this morning about the $40K donation that Microsoft will be making to TIST on behalf of Waddell & Reed.

As I mentioned, Waddell & Reed was declared the winner of the O2OBA Challenge competition that we ran in 2007 and they chose TIST to be recipients of the charitable donation portion of the winnings.

The competition is closed and the website is no longer live; however, the below URL directs you to the staging website where you can view a working preview of the website, including the competition rules as well as the details of the prizes delivered to the winner. Hopefully this site will convince you that this is all very legitimate, and that you will indeed be receiving a donation check in the near future. J (Though I completely understand your skepticism.)

A reminder that this is not the final website, so please ignore any grammatical errors, etc. that you may see.

<http://stage-o2obachallenge.gage.com/default.aspx>

In the near future you can expect to receive a formal letter outlining the details of this donation.

In the meantime, please feel free to contact me or my manager, Eric Morse (cc'ed), with any questions you may have.

It was a pleasure speaking with you today and I hope this news helps you get your weekend off to a great start! J

Best regards,
Sue

Susan Meyer
Marketing Program Manager
Enterprise Applications Strategy Team
Microsoft Corporation