Gabriel is very lonely, very poor and has lost hope for life. He has no one to talk to, no one to rely on until he finds a stray kitten in an alley next to his apartment. He rescues the kitten and brings it home to start a new life2. Add Big Landscape- How this story will apply to the whole whole. Take meaning and apply it to life. You have to dig deeper... what is the author really trying to say? For example: This story is really about the hope that a person can find in life, even if it seems that all hope is lost. While things in life may seem grim at times, there is always the possibility of a fresh start just around the corner. In this story, it is obvious that Gabriel is a lonely boy until he finds new hope in the kitten. 4. Put it all together; The story, Spaghetti, Cynthia Rylant about a boy named Gabriel. Gabriel is very lonely, very poor and has lost hope for life. He has no one to talk to, no one to rely on until he finds a stray kitten in an alley next to his apartment. He rescues the kitten and brings it home to start a new life. This story is really about the hope that a person can find in life, even if it seems that all hope is lost. While things in life may seem grim at times, there is always the possibility of a fresh start just around the corner. In this story, it is obvious that Gabriel is a lonely boy until he finds new hope in the kitten. Gabriel was a very lonely boy. In one section of the story, Gabriel sits on the his apartment. People talk all around him, but he's so used to alone, that he was blocking all the noises and laughter around him. He dreams of a life of solitude in the forest with coyotes, or living under theatrical lights near the bus stop. He does not dream of living this kind of life because he wants to be alone; he just lost hope. He's used to not interacting with people, he's used to ignoring people because he's being ignored all the time. He built so many walls around him that he almost misses the sound of a kitten crying in an alley. Gabriel's loneliness makes him lose hope that life can get better. The text reads: Gabriel was a boy who thought about things so seriously, so full, that that evening he almost missed hearing a scream from the street Gabriel so lonely, his only company his own thoughts and feelings, and it is not enough for him. Gabriel finds hope when he rescues a kitten from the street. This kitten opens his mind to the joys of life. He finds amazement in something that quite often, find a stray cat. He seems to see more joy in life now as thinking of a friendly Italian man. He remembers that his life is good, he has a home and people who care about him, and that with his new hope found, he returns to his apartment with this strong belief in the joy of life. Inserting a quote into your essayWhen you quote the author in a literary essay, a quote you choose should enhance your argument. You want to choose a powerful quote to prove your point (thesis).1. Look at your pieces of evidence and choose one post-it that you think a quote can enhance.2 Look at the text of the book and find your quote. Remember that it doesn't have to be dialogue. You can quote everything the author writes. They could be characters talking or storytelling.3 Make sure you explain to the reader what happens in the story when your quote happens. For example, Gabriel's loneliness makes him lose hope that life can get better. The text reads: Gabriel was a boy who thought about things so seriously, so full, that that evening he almost missed hearing a scream from the street Gabriel so lonely, his only company his own thoughts and feelings, and it is not enough for him. Now the reader has a clear idea of what happened in this story. Conclusion: In your conclusion, you want to bring back a larger landscape (the author's message) and give the reader something to think about after they have read your essay. Some starter suggestions that can help with this: Literature can help you understand things better. For example, I came, through (the main character) thoughts and experiences, to the conclusion that This story teaches me that from this story I learned that writing a persuasive letter research all the more You are about your topic, the more effective your email will be. Toe, as if the reader is on your side when writing a convincing letter, do not treat the reader as the enemy. Your letter will be much more effective if you are to assume that you and the mayor have the same goals. Then all you have to do is explain how your fabulous idea will help the mayor achieve these goals! Yorable not only is less than a polite letter likely to be ignored, it may even work against you! FORMATFirst item: Explain your suggestion what it is that you want. Second paragraph: Explain why it is a good idea to make this decision. Be sure to make arguments that will make sense to the reader. Third paragraph: Address any problems that you think the reader may have (Counter-arguments) Fourth paragraph: Conclude with a call to action. Tell the reader (politely) what to do and when to do it.
