Siegfried takes James to his first job treating an abscess in a gelded hoof. James meets Helen Alderson while treating an injured calf and she urges him to stand up to Siegfried, who will respect him. The locals get James drunk on homemade bread, and he mixes up a couple of cats while trying to feed them, resulting in siegfried almost castrate the wrong one. James manages to prove himself after saving the lives of a cow and its calf, to which Siegfried offered him a full-time job as an assistant. 22 Another Farnon? Brian PercivalBen Vanstone8 September 2020 (2020-09-08)5.03[b] James collects Siegfried's younger brother Tristan from the station and they accidentally crashed Siegfried's car. Tristan announces that he has graduated from Edinburgh Veterinary College and is joining the practice. James takes him to his rounds, where he has a problem with a cow suffering from milk fever. He fared better with Mrs Pumphrey and her Peking dog Tricky Woo, stating that she invites him to a party, where she meets Helen's partner Hugh Hulton. Mrs Hall later learned that Tristan had not been honest about his graduation. 33AndanteMetin HüseyinLisa Holdworth15 September 2020 (2020-09-15)5.22[c] Siegfried's application to vet the horse racetrack is in jeopardy after Hugh, owner of safe race and pride winner of the village of Andante, challenges James' reasoning for the descent. Tristan enjoys his new job of collecting debts from clients, until he ends up in a pub - and uses his insider knowledge to his advantage in betting on another favourite to win it back. Mrs Hall is trying to help Helen encourage her little sister to realise there is more to life than farming. 44Adual TrickyAndy HayFreddy Syborn22 September 2020 (2020-09-22)4.81[d] In addition to developing his blossoming relationship with Helen, James is engaged in helping Mrs Pumphrey's dog Tricky back to a healthy weight; Tristan, however, takes responsibility, determined to earn his sleuth for Siegfried to fund his impending return to studies - not helped by the dog's insidious enjoyment of the expensive nutritional stuff given to him to tidal while away from home. Mrs Hall is plagued by a constant lack of correspondence from her son, while the Farnons pass the male on to each other in an examination of a rather wild dog. 55All's FairMetin HüseyinDebbie O'Malley29 September 2020 (2020-09-29)4.87[e] On the day of the Darrowby Fair, James agrees to stand as an on-call vet, condemning cattle and pet competitions, unaware that this is a taxing and unadjusted task. Siegfried, Tristan and Mrs Hall bet on when James would resign indignation. James experiences pressure from almost every competitor, and from Helen, impatient for a favorable assessment prize bull, in the hope of securing a profitable sale. Siegfried meets Mrs Hall's attractive and untied friend, Dorothy, and despite their mutual appeal, Siegfried is still grieving for her recently deceased wife. 66A cure for all diseasesAndy HayJulian Jones and Ben Vanstone6 October 2020 (2020-10-06)5.17[f] James feels guilty about a cow purchased by a farmer based on his recommendation, which is now morbidly ill with abscess, and which he feels powerless to cure. Tristan becomes a revan proponent of risky proceedings, which Siegfried, as head of practice, strictly forbids. Tristan manages the operation to the best of his can, while Siegfried is taken with the flu. At James' surprise birthday party, Maggie, a waitress breaks off her tenuous relationship with Tristan, citing his lack of seriousness. Encouraged by Helen, James flees his birthday party to perform surgery on a morbidly ill cow, with the help of Tristan, to which Siegfried reluctantly agrees after initially trying to stop her. Later, at Drover's Arms, Siegfried promotes James to senior vet. ^ An additional 1.20m for Sunday's repeat contributed a total of 6.69m. ^ An additional 1.07m for Sunday's repeat contributed a total of 6.10m. ^ An additional 0.82 m (excluding device viewership) for Sunday's repeat in the 7-day viewership[15] contributed a total of at least 6.03 m. ^ An additional 1.36 meters for Sunday's repeat contributed a total of 6.17 meters. ^ An additional 0.91 m (excluding device viewership) for Sunday's repeat in the 7-day viewership[15] contributed a total of at least 5.78 meters. ^ An additional 1.23m for Sunday's repeat contributed a total of 6.40m. Christmas Special (2020) No.overallNo. inseriesTitle [13]Directed by Autor:Original air dateUK viewers(millions) [16]7-The Night Before ChristmasAndy HayBen Vanstone22 December 2020 (2020-12-22)TBD Exhausted by endless conversation about getting married, Helen escapes from her seasonal party with James, who is invited to the Chapmans to help their pregnant dog give birth; the two bind to the fragility of one of the puppies, before fog traps them at the top of the hill overnight and they struggle to contain their affection for each other. Giving Helen food to think about whether she's marrying Hugh is what she really wants. Siegfried enjoys a more liquid form of merriment and tries to get trust lessons from Tristan to steel himself for his encounter with Dorothy. Mrs Hall is allowing herself to get carried away with the unfulfilling excitement over the potential return of her unreliable son for Christmas. Tristan tries to help Maggie's shy little brother with a sick donkey and in turn receives an early Christmas present under her ex-girlfriend's mistletoe. Reception The first episode was watched overnight by 3.3 million viewers and earned an audience share of 20.4%, making All Creatures great and Channel 5's top-rated show since February 2016 [12] By using BARB's consolidated ratings for live and catch-up-watched programs (within 28 days), then All Creatures Great and Small becomes their most popular show ever with an episode on September 1, 2020 that now gets 5.4 million viewers (up 5.01 m over a 7-day period) with a further 1.2 million watching Sunday night's repeat. The Daily Telegraph's Michael Hogan gave the series four out of five stars and commented:Revisiting the world of All Creatures Great and Small felt like meeting old friends. All viewers who missed the classic triumvirate of Robert Hardy, Christopher Timothy and Peter Davison were surely converted by this well-crafted opener, confidently directed by Downton Abbey alumnus Brian Percival. [18] Hogan continued to call the show a family comfort viewing. Stitising salve in febrile times. [18] References ^ Farooqi, Jamila (24 January 2020).
