

Carl Mankowitz, MD, MPP, FACP has served in various public policy positions at the local, state and federal levels, served as medical director for an group model HMO and an insurance company, and CEO of a 700 bed hospital.

The last two decades of his career, he was a partner in a health care consulting firm, and served both public and private academic medical centers. He has been retired since 2007. He lives with his wife Lisa Rubin, who is an executive coach.