It is being used by many military forces and law enforcement agencies around the world. History since 1981[10] The Massachusetts-based Lenco Industries Company, known as The Linco Armored Vehicles, has been designed and manufactured by armored vehicles for law enforcement, military, government and sss. [11] Lenco has produced more than 5,000 armored vehicles for use in more than 40 countries around the world. [4] The BearCat is one type of vehicle produced by the company that is in use by many Us military and law enforcement agencies, and is also used by all states and territory police tactical groups in Australia purchased by the Australian government. [7] BearCat's name is based on a ballistic armored anti-attack truck response as he is a younger cousin to Lenco B.E.A.R.[12] Bearcat is based on the Ford F-550 Super Duty Commercial Chassis truck with two engines available (V10 Triton Gasoline and 6.7L Turbo Diesel), and a six-speed automatic transmission. [14] The thick.5-1.5-inch thick mil-spec steel armored chassis with 50 BMG rating[15] ballistic glass is capable of multiple visits, blast-resistant floors, weapon-resistant ports, roof gates/tower and agency specific equipment and/or modifications such as lights/sirens/beating ram/cranes/thermal cameras and spot lights. [16] The first Perkat was designed and completed in August 2001 as an occasional product of the largest Lenco B.E.A.R., with input from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office Special Enforcement Office (SEB) as an updated and improved version of the military surplus Cadillac Gage Guard Peace Guard armored vehicles. [4] BearCats use by law enforcement agencies is commonly referred to as armored rescue vehicles[17] with their primary use being tactical transport (SWAT/Special Reaction Teams) officers to and from Help restore and protect civilians in harm's way during terrorist threats, hostage incidents, or confrontations with large groups of aggressors. [18] BearCat is designed to provide protection against a variety of small arms, explosives and ieds. [18] Like her older cousin, B.E.A.R., the BearCat is capable of being equipped with a Mars adjustable mobile ramp system that allows tactical officers to gain access to elevated platforms such as second story windows or aircraft. [20] Lenco BearCats has been blamed for saving the lives of officers in armed confrontations on several occasions. In 2010, an armed criminal in Athens, Texas, fired more than 35 ak-74 semi-automatic rifle rounds at tactical police. One round did not penetrate Bear Cat. [22] In June 2012, BearCat, a member of the Emergency Response Team at Pax Central, fired 28 rounds of a high-powered rifle during a siege without any shots penetrating the vehicle. [23] In November 2015, police used BearCat to rescue civilians during the Planned Parenthood shooting in Colorado Springs. [24] The Oklahoma County Sheriff's Office was shot four to seven times with a rifle during an incident on December 29, 2015. Sheriff Wetzel was quoted as saying that Bear Cat had saved the lives of the deputies. [25] On June 12, 2016, BearCat was used to break into pulse nightclubs after a gunman shot and killed 49 clubgoers and wounded 53 others. BearCat G3 variants of the Ottawa Police Service at present there are nine variants of BearCat, some with unique features and others designed for specific purposes or customers. [26] Military-military version LE - Law Enforcement Version G3 - Off-Road Alternative to Law Enforcement VIP/SUV - Armored Vehicle for Diplomatic Missions Medevac LE - MedCat Armored Medical Evacuation Vehicle (Law Enforcement) - equipped with two medical garbage, oxygen tanks, a lighted workstation, medical supply compartments and equipment storage. [27] Medevac Mil , MedCat Armored Medical Evacuation Vehicle (Military) - designed for tactical combat model (TC3), equipped with the same features as MedCat LE with four medical waste. [27] Riot Edition equipped with riot gear, as shown below. Equipped with hydraulic RAM (front plow) for the transfer of heavy steel shield construction barriers with optional B-Kit & Blast gunner protection kit with mounts for M249, Mk19, M2.50 k specific mission floorplan designed for end user requirements protective window screens and light guards, LRAD, smoke launcher V8 turbo diesel engine; 4x4 for ready-made commercial off-road performance (COTS) platform for easy maintenance and low-cost G4 M-ATV – armored all-terrain vehicle (4th generation) explosive ordnance disposal - bombcat armored vehicle for units with a large bomb room Android, with a folded slope down and a hydraulically controlled platform for deployment. It can also include a ceiling-mounted zoom camera with scene lighting, thermal camera, CBRNE equipment, and advanced on-demand communication services. [28] The BearCat series features customizable features with a variety of non-standard features depending on customer requirements. BeCats can be equipped with high mobility platform systems called Liberator and ARC by Patriot3, Inc. to enable tactical units to access a variety of elevated structures such as multi-deck buildings, ships on sidewalks or aircraft during high-risk hostage or terrorist situations. The LAPD fits one of its four Lenko armored vehicles with one such system, along with several local law enforcement agencies and other states. [5] Some of Birkat's features include: emergency lights/sirens rotating the roof of optional towers powered with or without ballistic glass panels and blast shields ports gun electric cranes running protection panels against chemicals, biological, radiological and nuclear, high explosive power (CBRNE) backup camera joint remote weapons station (CROWS) hit RAM CS gas facility (tear gas) deploying radiation detector slick camera nozzle systems/flood lights this section needs additional martyrdom.
