The sheet corresponds to the video, which includes an actual exam question on the subject. High GCSE Topics Students can watch videos and create notes as they go though, including key formulas and small tricks to remember when completing questions on the topic. A flipped learning, home learning or modification can be used as exercise. Read more Report an issue This one worksheet was created jointly with another math teacher/teacher. We were both in Shanghai and gave a Grade 8 class (Year 9 students) the task of teaching the subject. We aimed to multiply and transfer students from fractions (no algebra) to questions with algebra, but also include 'open-ended' style questions and questions that together linked to math concepts (simultaneous equations and connections with region and volume). We used Craig Barton's 'example', then 'try it questions' to introduce each style of question and teach concepts. Read more Report an issue
