(Anything But Love) (2008) I Don't Care (2008) End of Me (2010) I Don't Care - song by Finnish rock band Apocalyptica, The song was released in 2008 as the third and final single from the sixth worlds album Collide and includes Adam Gonthier in vocals. The song peaked at No.1 on the Billboard Mainstream Rock Tracks for one week and No. 2 on the Alternative Songs chart, where it spent a year in the top 20. Meaning Eicca Toppinen spoke about the song in an interview for the Dutch metal webzine zaveremetal in 2007: I wrote some lyrics on I don't care. Max Martin wrote most of the text, however. The song is about fantasy, not about anyone in particular, but I think everyone can find a sense of truth in the lyrics. Versions there are two recorded versions of the song. The first (length 3:57) was released in 2007 in Europe. Adam Gonthier wanted to re-record the song for the U.S. and Canadian release Worlds Collide in 2008, and this version is 3:41. In this radio-edited version of the song, some explicit content of the song, including the second half of the chorus, is replaced. The radio editing version is only available on the single, as well as in the U.S. and Canada. In a February 2008 interview with Brave Words and Bloody Knuckles magazine, Eicca Toppinen of Apocalyptica explained why there were two versions of the song: We actually reworked the song. Adam (Gonthier) originally recorded his vocals in the spring (in 2007) with our producer (Jacob Hellner), but Adam was not entirely happy with the result. So a couple of weeks ago, Adam went to the studio with (Three Days of Grace producer) Howard Benson to record a new version of the song. That's really cool. It will actually be on the US/Canada edition. I Don't Care was based on the instrumental track Love Song written by Eicca Toppinen for the soundtrack to the film Black Ice. In mid-2020, the original version became unavailable on streaming platforms for a currently unknown reason. It has since been replaced with an instrumental version. Music Video Talking About the Concept Of Video, Eicca Toppinen Said: It Happens be a little quirky. It will be surreal in many ways, maybe a little bit in the spirit of Tim Burton. There are acrobats, strange people who do strange things. He will be shot dead in an old house where no one lives; It's a big mansion. It's really creepy. Of course, the director, Lisa Mann, is the only person who really knows at the moment, but it's interesting for us. She really wants to get people inside the group out. It feels completely different. It has a really special look. The video shows the group playing in a decrepit house. The band plays in a small room with a low ceiling (Adam Gonthier has to hunch to stand). Next, the video shows team members and other women coming in and out of the small doors. In the next scene, he shows the band, Gonthier, and more women in the hallway standing still, dancing, walking and playing. Then three women are involved. In this dance sequence, women dance around three cellists, trying to seduce them, but they don't pay attention. In the neckline, it shows three men playing. Cut back, and three women sit in their lap. He then shows men playing women like cellos. The next scene shows Gonthier rejecting the woman as she tries to dance with him. In a cut-out scene that continues from the dance sequence, the women move away from their cellos. In the last scene, it shows everyone in the room surrounding the table, eating, drinking, laughing, talking, dancing and kissing. Eventually, the band and Adam Gonthier finished playing, and the green light shines behind them. The chart performance of I Don't Care reached No. 96 on necessary refinement and peaked in #1 on 11.29.2008 Billboard Hot Rock Songs of the Decade. In other media the track was used in the CW series Smallville's eighth season, episode 16, titled Turbulence.
