GAZIANTEP, Turkey (Reuters) - President Tayyip Erdogan's ruling AK Party on Wednesday dismissed more than 16,000 employees from its Istanbul provincial headquarters in a purge of supporters of a U.S.-based cleric who has accused Erdogan of orchestrating a coup plot. Slideshow (5 images) The dismissals are the biggest purge in a shake-up that has seen more than 40,000 people suspended, fired or arrested since the failed coup on July 15, including state ministers, police chiefs and academics. They come after about 3,000 soldiers were ordered to their units on Monday, two days before the coup attempt, a government official said. Erdogan, speaking at an election rally in the southeastern province of Mardin, also said on Wednesday he planned to review the army's mission and "we will change the rules of engagement for the security forces". Erdogan, speaking on a visit to a sports hall in Mardin, said he was planning to "revise" the army mission and ordered his ministers to set up a panel to review the mission. 520fdb1ae7
