The Marathi Calendar is a system of organizing days for social, religious, commercial or administrative purposes. This is done by giving names of time periods, usually days, weeks, months and years. The date is the appointment of a single specific day within such a system. The calendar is also a physical report (often paper) of such a system. A calendar can also mean a list of scheduled events, such as a court calendar or a partial or entirely chronological list of documents such as the will calendar. Samwat is a term that is used to refer to an era that is described through the Indian calendar. Thus, samwat as a term can be used to refer to any of the various Hindu calendars. Shaka samvat and Vikram samvat are based on lunar months and solar years. However, the traditional shaka samvat follows the sunny sidereal years, and modern Shaka samvat follows the solar tropical years. Shaka Samwat is based on the calendar years of the Chaitra, named after the sunny months, named as: - 1. Chaitra 2. Vaisah 3. Jiaishta 4. Ashadha 5. Sravana 6. Bhadra 7. Asvina 8. Kartika 9. Agrahayana or Margasirsha 10. Pausa 11. Maga 12. Phalguna Saka Samvat is believed to be based on a celebration that took place during the coronation of King Chalivahan in 78 AD Goody Padao (March-April) indicates the beginning of this particular year. Saka's reformulated calendar officially used in India as a civilian calendar.
