Welcome to the Music Theory for Songwriters course!

Over the next 5 lessons, we’re going to be going over all the basic music theory concepts and how they apply to songwriting.

We’re starting from the basics - you don’t need any prior knowledge of music theory, music reading to take this course. All you’ll need to know is how to play a few chords on any instrument. (But don’t worry, if you’re already a seasoned songwriter, I think you’ll still take away some great tips from this course.)

I recommend you do one lesson per day - take it slowly and make sure you really understand each concept before you move on to the next lesson!

At the end of each lesson, you’ll get a challenge to apply the music theory concepts to your songwriting. Even if you’re already familiar with them, the challenges will give you ideas to incorporate the concepts into your songwriting.

Good luck!

Katie