Thriller, Young Adult FictionPublisherRandom HousePublished2 May 2007Media typePrint (paperback) Audiobook Secrets of the Immortal Nicholas Flamel is a series of six fantasy novels, written by Irish author Michael Scott, completed in 2012. The first book in the series, Alchemist, was released in 2007, and sequels were released at a rate of one per year, concluding with Enchantress in 2012. The cover artist of the series is Michael Wagner. English-language versions are printed by Doubleday (hardback) and Corgi (paperback) (Random House prints) in the UK and Australia, as well as Delacorte Press (hardback and paperback; also Random House) in the US. To date, 37 countries have acquired translation rights and 20 languages have been translated into 20 languages. Each of the first four titles is the first time on the Children's Books list in the New York Times. The Alchemist reached No. 2 on August 26, 2007 and by March 24, 2008, more than 150,000 copies were sold. The Wizard reached No. 4 on July 13, 2008. Sorceress reached No. 5, and Necromancer reached No. The books were nominated for various teen literary and reading awards. The rights to the film were bought by AMPCO Films. A review of the plot Of the main story arc shows the adventures of two fifteen-year-old Americans, named Sophie and Josh Newman, whose ordinary life, working on their summer work (Sophie works in a cafe, Josh in a bookstore), turned upside down by the arrival of Dr. John Dee. Dr. Dee engages bookstore owner Nick Fleming in a magical battle, trying to steal from him an ancient book . The Book of Abraham the Magician (also also as Codex). Dr. John Dee snatches the book from Josh's hands, but Josh manages to save two pages. Dr. John Dee also kidnaps Nick Perry's wife Fleming and imprisons her on Alcatraz Island. After the battle, Nick Fleming admits to Josh and Sophie that his real name is Nicholas Flamel, that he is a French alchemist from history, that he is also immortal, and that the twins, himself, and Perry (his immortal wife, Perenell Flamel), are in serious danger. Nicholas tells the twins that he believes they are mentioned in the prophecy in the Codex, and that the fate of the world as they know it may depend on his success in getting their dormant, hidden magical abilities fully awake. He also tells them that without the Codex, and he and Perry will die within a month, like their immortality, long-term youth, and depends on the recipe of the special elixir, found only on its pages. This elixir changes monthly and cannot be remembered. Meanwhile, Dr. John Dee learned that he was missing two vital pages from the Codex. Pages are the Last Call he needs to bring his masters, the Dark Elders, back to earth. and so begins a fast-paced race as Dee pursues twins and Nicholas in the pages of Codex, while Nicholas, with the support of Sc'thach and others, races to get the hidden magical auras of the twins awake to get them to school in the use of elementary magic - water, fire, earth, air, and ether - and save his wife, Perry. Stories cross the globe, featuring famous places and landmarks such as San Francisco, London, the Eiffel Tower, Stonehenge, and the Golden Gate Bridge. Many characters from history and mythology help both sides pursue their goals. Only the first four books in the series include Scatah, Hekei, Prometheus, Witch of Endor, Gilgamesh, Niccolo Machiavelli, Bastet, Odin, William Shakespeare, Joan of Arc, Billy the Kid, Virginia Dare, Earl of Saint-Germain and Mars Ultor. Development of the series as a whole began in May 1997. The series originally starred Dr. Dee, and it was to be called The Secrets of John Dee, a historical character that Scott knew well, starring him in three of his other titles: The Image, Reflection and The Prince of Commerce. He wanted to bring Dr. Dee to the 21st century and introduce him to a young audience who may not have heard of the historical doctor before, but he decided that Dr. Dee was too sinister and had a dubious motivation. Inspiration struck one night in 2000 when Scott took a wrong turn while wandering around Paris and happened to be at Nicholas Flamel's house on Montmorency Street. Deciding that he had found the perfect mentor for the twins, Scott began to seriously plan the series, planning the plot of each chapter. He soon decided that it would be a series of six books that would allow him to present many figures from history and mythology. In six books, readers got acquainted with the characters of Greco-Roman, Egyptian, Norse and Celtic mythologies and historical characters of elizabethan, Renaissance, Egyptian and gilded eras. He has planned the entire series to such a complex level that his script plot now exceeds 80,000 words, equivalent to the book itself, and that he knew in 2009 what the last words in the series would be. The main characters Nicholas Flamel - the main character, alchemist. Together with his wife Perenell, he lived almost 700 years in search of Josh and Sophie Newman, the gold and silver twins of legend who can save the Shadow of the Earth from the mad Dr. John Dee and the Dark Elders who seek to destroy it. Flamel is the legend that built it state through alchemy, which he uses for amazing effect to fight the horrors Dee sends after the twins and himself. Despite his good intentions, however, he is not without flaws as being selfish and not learning from his mistakes and yearn for fame for teaching Josh and Sophie. Josh Newman - The Golden Twin of legend. Awakened by Mars Ultor, Josh is a history lover and natural strategist. However, he is suspicious of Nicholas Flamel because he does not tell them about the demise of the previous twins, which leads to Josh eventually changing alliances, although he is still wary of Dee. After all, he's in the side of Flamel. Sophie Newman as The Legend's Silver Twin. Awakening Hekei (Goddess of Three Faces) and then training the Witch of Endor, which fills her memories and experiences into her. Sophie protects Josh and is more patient, although she is also horrified by the fate of the twins. She decides to side with the Flamel to save the Earth, but looks for her brother eventually. Dr. John Dee is the chief antagonist. The English magician and necromancer, who previously consecrated the queen Elizabeth I, seeks to bring back to earth the Dark Elders who want to destroy and restore it. However, after he is declared outlaw, or outlawed, for their inability, he decides to use four swords of power - Excalibur, Clarent, Joyeuse and Durendal - to go back in time to Dana Talis and destroy them, persuading Josh to join his side with the promise of a renewed Earth. After all, he's on the Flamels side, but by then it's too late. Perenell Flamel - nicholas's wife and powerful sorceress. As the seventh daughter of her seventh daughter, she can connect with ghosts and has a long-standing feud with Machiavelli. Many have speculated, correctly, that she is much more powerful than Nicholas, as she proved as she tries to save San Francisco from the horrors at nearby Alcatraz. Niccolo Machiavelli is a well-known Italian philosopher and eventually a sorcerer, or vaerlag, tasked with liberating the army from Alcatraz after helping Dee in Paris. He and Josh have an understanding, as they are both people in spirit, a trait he later shares with Billy the Kid. This trait forces Machiavelli to reconsider his opinion of the Dark Elders and reform and violate his oaths before them, deciding not to release monsters on humani. Scathach - Celtic goddess of war. She's got a grey aura. She's a 2nd generation elder and a vegetarian vampire. She's about 10,000 years old, but she looks 17 and claims to be 2000. She will accompany the alchemist and twins in their adventures, but will be taken by Dagon in the Seine. It is a great friend of Joan of Arc that she was educated. She was the creator of most martial arts and formed the biggest Heroes of History. To help people during the fall of Dana Talis, she was rejected family before saving his life a few years later. She speaks little of his parents and her brother. She has a twin sister (AIF), but they'd long ago been confused about the boy, they no longer talk to each other. Scathach is also called Shadow, Goddess Warrior, King Maker, Warrior Maiden Daemon Slayer and Scatty. Her grandmother is witch Endora, her alleged grandfather Mars Ultor. The meaning of the titles on July 1, 2012 Michael Scott made this statement, irrefutably naming the title characters so far . Each book in the series is named after the character. Some are easy to guess (Alchemist Flamel, for example), but others require a closer reading of the text. So here, to avoid endless Wikipedia changes, is the (almost) final list. Alchemist - Nicholas Flamel. The Wizard is Dr. John Dee. The sorceress is Perenelle Flamel. The necromancer is Josh Newman. The sorcerer is Mars Ultor. Sophie Newman's charms. Special editions and variations of the cover on August 5, 2010 in the UK Necromancer was released with a cover in a new style; he was joined by The Alchemyst, The Magician and The Sorceress, who were re-covered with new covers in the same style. The first related online game to be launched was The Codex Master, the game is to guess the secret code consisting of a sequence of colored balls, entering different sequences and using logic. When a sequence is entered, the indicators show when the player has the right color, and when the color is in the right or wrong position to allow them to apply logic and guess the correct sequence. The online game was created to celebrate the release of The Sorceress. It was called Elder Challenge and was launched on April 21, 2009. Players are guided through the game, which is a set of four tasks, via video scenes featuring Michael The first task, the task of alchemist, Alchemist. Players to assemble a moving puzzle logo series against the countdown clock. The second task, The Magician's task, required players to turn over two books from a series of books and find the appropriate characters; when the couple were found, both books caught fire and disappeared. The task was completed when all the books were matched. The third task, the Taskagna, was a color sequencing game where players chose colored flasks and had to repeat the sequence in which they were shown. The players then went to a meeting with Elder, who asked them a series of questions about knowledge of the books, and were given a color aura rating calculated from their grades and time to delay to complete assignments. To promote the U.S. necromancer, Random House has released an online game called The Code quest. Players were presented with a grid containing dead squares, and they had to click on the squares to reveal hidden rewards by playing shapes and mini-games. When they completed the game, they gained online access to the first 6 chapters of The Necromancer. The rights to the film were originally sold in 2006 to New Line Cinema and Mark Burnett Productions with Mark Burnett as producer and Eric Bresson as a screenwriter. The film was listed as in pre-production and reported on IMDb. A mention of the deal can still be found in the BBC archives. The rights were returned to Michael Scott, and on November 19, 2009, Variety announced that Lorenzo di Bonaventura had bought the rights to the film. Michael Scott and Barry Krost were to become executive producers. Well, I was promising news for the Flamel movie. Here's the press release. The film was created with New Line, but New Line were absorbed by Warner and the rights came back to me. There was a huge interest in the series and eventually, he went to Lorenzo di Bonaventura, who is the man responsible bringing Harry Potter to Warner when he was there. He genuinely loves this series. The next step now is joining a writer - I won't write, I have 3 more books to do! - Michael Scott on June 21, 2012. it was announced that AMPCO Films had acquired the rights to the film. Production will begin in February 2013 in Australia and New York. Michael Scott will write the script, saying that he would like it to be true for the books. Links to Michael Scott.
