We only waited about 60 minutes. I ordered the burnt edges and told me they were out of burnt ends, and ribs. So I sat down on a ham sandwich and my dining partner ordered the beef breast tray. We ordered fried pickles for an appetizer; They were pretty good. We loved the lighter batter like tempura and loved how thick pickles were. The sauce with the pickles tasted delicate and nice. We will make a fortune by 100:00:00:00,000 ----- it was clear that my sandwich sat for quite some time. The flavours of the sandwich were good, but the bottom bun fell apart as soon as I picked it up. It was an emotional mess. The chips that came with the sandwich were old, and would be over-seasoned (I saw them go out to other tables and there wasn't even half the amount of seasoning I had). I liked that they used dry rubbing to spice them up, it was just too much of that. The beef breasts were good, too. The salted corn was very good, although it was really just corn with cheese and not real creamed corn. The macaroni and cheese were above average. The cornbread was dry and over-cooked (burnt), although the sweet butter was a nice compliment. The service started wonderfully, but went down greatly once our meals arrived. They were delivered by another server and the next time we saw our server was when he dropped the check... Before we even finished eating. We wanted to order dessert, but after waiting 30 minutes for the server to return, we decided we were no longer interested. We live the picture so there will be cell 125 we plan to return, but we'll wait a few months until they risk some of the defects. Atlas provided my daughter's wedding at Lym Killen Park, and I can't say enough about how pleased we are! Mike and his men arrived on time. In fact), clean, friendly, and very eager to please. The food was preparing, the choice outstanding, the preparation of the site flawless. Great isn't good enough. If you're in Grafton, eat there! (We did that, too.) If you need cateting, use them! You'll be glad you'll despise. I can always judge a good barbecue spot by their beef breasts and service. I've been here three times. The burnt edges the first two times were fine. On the third trip, I decided to try the beef breast sandwich. The problems have begun. First, taste and smoke... Very well. What was bad, the kitchen didn't cut the beef breast properly, yes, cut with the grain and not against it. If you like beef breasts, you know it has to be sliced against the grain. Otherwise, it's like chewing rubber. It shows that this barbecue restaurant is a rookie barbecue spot. The famous Dave has a better knowledge of what to do with a barbecue. Anyway, after I used my knife to cut off the beef breast, I told the bartender waiting for me that they cut the beef breast wrong. Looks like she said something to another young lady at the end of the bar. But no one's in the kitchen. Probably just complained about me for no reason, believe me, I was nice when explaining the issue. Another man along the bar area complained that it had been cut to thick. After I got my beef breast, I agree with that person's complaint. Anyway, she came back and said she told the kitchen... Yes of course. I hate being lied to, especially when I'm there and watching you talk to people. Literally, she never left the bar area! Anyway, I'm done and I left disappointed. I can't recommend this place. Especially for people who know barbecues well. To add to the theme, beers are very limited on tap! I probably won't be coming back.
