We have custom build workspace which is based on maven. The goal is to generate war-file and deploy it on targeted server. When we tried to do it, there is a lot of error messages as expected. I managed to fix some problems. But still, I am not able to build the project successfully. Because there are 2 major problems. In order to run maven project, we need to have deployer (db-deployer) in place. When I generate war-file, the target server needs to have all the dependant files. When the war-file is not generated successfully, the second point fails. Can someone help me with these 2 issues? Thanks in advance. A: Based on your issues: Maven project: You need to have at least two different maven projects. One for the WAR file and one for the DB-deployer. Create the WAR project first, so that you can use maven-war-plugin to generate a WAR file. You should deploy the WAR to the target server. When you use the maven-war-plugin, you should make sure that the WAR project is deployed to the target server. The maven-war-plugin will pick up the dependencies from the WAR project and deploy the WAR file to the target server. So in your case, you should first build the WAR project and then run mvn clean install -DskipTests to deploy the WAR to the target server. One more thing, you may want to include the DB-deployer as a dependency in your WAR project. This will make sure that the WAR project always have the DB-deployer installed on the target server.
