Made Simple

OBJECTIVE:

To equip anyone carrying out maintenance to checks, to identify the most common, day-to-day defects that can arise

We carry out full fire door checks as part of our Fire Risk Assessment for a building, and assess the risks from these. However, it's important to make sure that any day-to-day maintenance issues that arise are picked up promptly and addressed.

This will take the form of lighter-touch inspections for more obvious defects; physical damage, missing smoke seals, sticking doors, etc.

We provide a comprehensive overview of what an inspection should be picking up, in between the FRA “full fat” assessment. This course is ideal for any member of staff involved in the facilities management and building maintenance.

The Practicalities

How the session is delivered

This can be delivered in person, at your place or ours (No8) or virtually through MS Teams or Zoom.

The duration of the session is normally 1.5 hours. The course fee depends on the number of delegates and the type of premises the inspectors will be working in; we'll tailor the session to you.
