JEANS SIE CHART: HOW FIND YOUR DENIM FIT The next chart will help you match the size of the brand to your usual size. Follow our easy guide to find your best ever matching jeans. HOW SHOULD MY JEANS FIT? At Trilogy we know that the most important part of choosing a pair of jeans is fit, so we asked our experienced style advisors for their best tips for achieving the desired fit: Watch the belt: Make sure your jeans are snug and hugging the waist, but don't be too tight that jeans are cutting into you. Walk around in jeans and sit in them to make sure the fit is comfortable moving around in. A good measure is to see if you can put your hand down the belt in the back of the jeans, if you can make it the jeans may be too big for you and you can try the size down. On your hips: Check the crotch jeans snug and don't hang down with too much loose fabric. You should also check the boom, back pockets and front pocket area to see if they are too tight or wrinkled because they are too loose. Too tight or loose: All jeans should be a little snug when you try them on. This is because after several times wearing them, they naturally stretch a bit. If you struggle to zip them up or can't bend over properly, then they are too tight. They should be comfortable, fit in the crotch and be a little snug. Hem length: Our best advice is to try jeans by wearing the shoes you will wear with them. If you find that they are too long, we have a change service to help you reach the perfect length. A what Best growth for jeans? The rise relates to how far jeans will be at your natural waist. Low-rise jeans usually sit two or three inches below the navel.
