Sam's younger brother Caleb is behind the camera, helping them film an audition for a reality show. During a trip to the mountains, they see the Amber Alert sign. It describes the Grey Honda, and the license plate. Coincidentally, they see a gray Honda a few meters in front of them. They pass another one with the same description. There's a brief silence before Sam calls the police. They tell her they will arrive in about 15 minutes cause they get a lot of calls. She tells Sam that they can follow the car at a safe distance, they shouldn't be in contact with him. Nate has this with that. She argues that he may have kidnapped the girl, Nate claims it's probably just a custody battle. They continue to keep an eye on the car's unsafe distance. The man pulls at the gas station, they follow the parking a little far from him. He goes somewhere for a moment, and Sam, being really stupid, I go up to his car and look inside. She calls Nate on the phone and says there's a little girl inside. She puts the microphone in the car, retreats back to Nate's case, he tells her that the guy comes back, and follow the guy as he pulls out. They listen to the dialogue from his car, they pick up from the microphone. He calls his phone company complaining that he's got too much. He's raising an ex-wife. Then Sam and Nate start arguing, because Nate is still convinced that he's the guy in the custody battle. The man mentions Sandhill, and reads out his phone number, which Sam notes. They continue to follow him at an unsafe distance, and the guy in the car realizes that he is being watched and stops on the highway. Sam makes Nate do the same thing he objects to, but does anyway. The guy gets out of the car and knocks on the window, which Nate opens reluctantly. The guy asks why he's being watched, and Sam confronts him. The guy claims that the Amber Alert sign is the reason he kept his daughter a day later and he only had to keep her for the weekend. He invites Sam to talk to the girl. Sam threatens to call the police, he claims he has already spoken to them. Nate convinces Sam to leave him. When they leave, they're here a man through a microphone. He threatens the girl, causing Sam to tantrum, and there is more controversy. Sam calls the police and tells them what happened. Officers are on their way and Nate speeds well beyond the speed limit to catch up with the kidnapper. The police are going to call Nate. Sam yells at the policeman, telling him what happened. He tells them to go to the police station and hand over the footage. After the officer leaves, Sam invites them to find the guy. Nate keeps driving. After constant looking they pull into the restaurant. Sam is looking to see if Sandhill is a street and learns that there is Sandhill Road. After they've finished eating, they go in search of him. They find it and drive down the street to see if they get some type of noise from the microphone. They get one and listen. They hear more dialogue between a man and a little girl. Sam calls the police. They say wait for them to get there. Hearing the man say nasty things to the girl, Sam took out her phone, calls his number and pretends to be a cell phone supervisor, offering him a sweet deal. He's leaving in a white van. Sam decides to get out of the car, take the camera and break into the house of the kidnapper. Nate joins her, leaving his younger brother Caleb in the car alone. Isn't she a wonderful sister? Not. They break into his dirty house, go down to his garage, his car alarm goes off, and Nate points out that the microphone, she put it in his car, no more, and wondered if it was a little strange. It's This, but she shakes off his comment and continues to search for the girl. They go through his house and find that the guy has a lot of weapons. They do not arm themselves or take off their bullets; they just leave the weapons there, even if he can come back. They continue to find a little girl locked in a cage. They find the hammer, and they break it. They try to leave and they find the camera and their microphone that Sam put in the kidnapper's car. Nate says the guy knows they're here. Caleb calls and says the kidnapper is in the house. The kidnapper shoots Sam in the back of the head, killing her. Nate shoots the man, but also gets shot. The kidnapper dies, as does Nate. The girl is returned to her parents, and Caleb has only a bullet in the shoulder. It's the worst movie I've ever seen. The acting was horrible, they made the stupidest decisions you could make, and all Sam and Nate ever did throughout the movie was to argue for an unreal amount of time. I had a feeling that whoever wrote the script was trying to make it realistic, but. They could have survived if they had kept a safe distance, found out the boy's whereabouts, and then left until the police broke in and arrested him. But no, they had to break into the kidnapper's house and kill themselves. I don't think it was a waste because the girl escaped unharmed. It's still a bad movie. Don't watch it if you still feel the need to judge it for yourself. 5 out of 9 found it useful. Was this review useful? Sign up to vote.
