The exact story of Blue Fin Black Apprentices is not too clear and there is not much documentation about their history. They were created around 2000 by former black students Marvel Thomson (King Vel), who at the time was the 2nd commander of the Black Apprentices. Around 2000, Marvel Thomson took the bold step of having several sets of black students located in southern Chicago break away from the Black Apprentice nation and become allies of the nation's people; Black students have traditionally been members of the nation. Blue Finns are also called blue Fin Five Apprentice because the nation's people use 5 pointed stars as a symbol, as against the 6 tagged stars used by the Nation. Marvel Thomson also blue Fin Black Apprentices take islamic beliefs that many gangs in the popular nation follow, especially the Black P. Stones. It's unclear why King Vel decided to break away from black disciples, but many speculated that this was due to the poor treatment of Black Apprentices with many of the gangs in the nation's folk, especially gangster Disciples. By joining the People's Nation, the Blue Finns began to follow the people's charter and establish a strong relationship with black stones P and Mickey Cobram. The main enemies of the Blue Fins are The Gangster Apprentice and the Black Apprentice. Some people have speculated that the creation of Blue Fins is the reason Jerome Shorty Freeman, then leader of the Black Apprentices, resigned, however, those close to law enforcement claim that he did so in an attempt to get out of prison early, he resigned as leader of the Black Apprentices in April 2000. Over time though Blue Fin Black Apprentices Active, numerous people claim that some sets of Blue Fin Black Apprentices have decided to reunite with the Black Apprentice nation. The Blue Five Black Disciples or Blue Fin Black Apprentices were formed somewhere around 2000 as the Black Nation's Apprentice faction. The band was formed by Marvell Thompson A.K.A King Vel. King Vel was the second team for the Black Apprentices, led by Jerome Freeman, before Freeman retired. In a bold move, King Vel broke away several southern side BD factions and leveled them as part of a popular alliance, including the adaptation of Islamic beliefs seen in some countries under the people. This new faction of Renegade is known as Blue Fin BDs. Some believe that this radical change in the traditional beliefs of Black Apprentice is what caused Jerome Freeman to resign. Some also attribute the bad relations the BDs had to other gangs of people such as Gangster Disciples, which caused this new people faction DB to appear. Blue fins then adopted the nation's people's charters and strong relationships with Black Stones P and Mickey Cobras. MC and Blue Fins even share sets at 59th and King Dr., Jackson and Damen both 117th and Princeton. Their main enemies are gangster students, as well as black students, who still have traditional human charters. Many traditional black students don't recognize Marvell Thompson's King Vel as a leader and say he's not welcome to Black Apprentice strongholds. Dominique was a young man when he decided to move to Los Santos, trying to evade gang life in Chicago. Instead he revealed the truth about Los Santos and his people. It wasn't a glamorous place as he always thought it would be. He found that the place was almost exactly the same as Chicago, and the gang could have been worse off. In the end, after being pushed by other gangs, Dominic had had enough. He met with several of his old Chicago buddies, and decided to go back to his Chicago roots, and create a gang. He decided that with all his family history, he could only influence one way, and it was Blue Fin BD's. He became a leader, and still has a lot of connections in Chicago, but with Blue Fin beefing with other black students, he couldn't reach out to his family connections in Chicago, so he had to start from scratch in Los Santos. The Blue Fin Black apprentices are a new breed of gangster. They do not follow the original laws of the BD's People's Nation. Dominic knew. and was able to do a lot of a lot allies throughout the area. He made alliances with the Almighty Vice Lord and Mickey Cobras. He then began turning on his Hispanic allies, robbing them of drugs and guns, all the while arming youths in the streets with various guns. Then the feds began to watch as the youth began to grow more, and more violent. This soon became a problem for Dominic, knowing that his men would turn on him for reduced charges. A month later, Dominic Robinson was sentenced to five years in prison for ordering the arson of a rival complex of Hispanic gangs. When he caught the wind as a gang he once worked ruthlessly, barely able to feed his family, he became enraged. He was sent into a rage that no one had ever seen of him. When he was released from prison on December 10, 2013, after spending five years in prison, he swore that he would lead the Blue Finns again and restore them to their once-great power.

The Location of the Blue Fin database was unknown just a few months ago. They use homes on 117th and Princeton Ave (By Pig Pen.)

1/ Always follow the rules of the server and the gang at any time. 2. Using OOC chat, such as /b or /o during role-playing, is not allowed unless it is really required. Use /evening if you must. 3. Respect others if you want to be respected. 4. It's an African-American gang. If you want to play the role of white, Mexican or any other race, you should keep in mind that only African-American characters will make it far in this faction. 5. Always role-playing to the best of their ability, even if the other person is not. You should be aware of gangs in general, but especially black students. You need to know gang graffiti, gang signs, and a story about gang. 7. Role playing with a gang can lead to a PC as well as CK if you are a gang member.
