JeugdGeorge Washington in 1779George Washington kwam op 22 Feb 1732 ter wereld in een rijke familie van Engelse oorsprong. Hij werd geboren in Pope's Creek, een plaats in Westmoreland County, Virginia. In 1657 was de overgrootvader van George vanuit Engeland naar de Verenigde Staten geëmigreerd. George was de oudste van de zes kinderen van Augustine Washington (1694-1743) en diens tweede vrouw, Mary Johnson Ball (1707-1789), die in 1731 getrouwd waren. Vader Augustine was slavenhouder, bezat enkele tabaksplantages en had het financieel aardig voor elkaar. Moeder was een vrome, geestelijk sterke maar ook eigenwijze en wrede vrouw, die een belangrijke vormende invloed snake op het leven van George. Mary focuste zich op het gezinsleven en de plantage, de rest van de wereld con haar niet boeien. George leeks deels op haar: ook hij was eigenwijs, ondernemend en wilde alles onder controle hebben in life and immediate surroundings. On the other hand, George characterized himself as his mother opposite: George was literate, had a broad view and needed constant positive affirmation from others to make them feel good, according to his biographer Chernow.In 1735, George was three years old, the Washington family moved to Little Hunting Creek. This was a wooded area that was 100 miles away. Here they covered the house on top of a hill. Augustine owned a huge area of land (2,500 acres) with a plantation. In 1738, the family moved again, now to an estate near Fredericksburg.When George was eleven, his father died. Soon after, he moved to Mount Vernon. George then attended home school and, like his non-owning brothers, did not attend school in England. In addition to family lessons, he also received lessons at home from the hired director of mathematics, geography and other subjects. Since 1748, George has trained as an inspector and helped design the city of Belhaven (now called Alexandria) in Virginia. At the age of 20, George's half-brother Lawrence, who inherited the plantations from father Augustine, died of tuberculosis. Then his estate went to George through the inheriting. This Congress was the legislative body of thirteen colonies, until 1789 the first US Constitution entered into force. On June 15, 1775, Washington was appointed general of the U.S. Army in the fight against the British. Americans had enough of British laws and interference, such as the Proclamation Act of 1763 and the Stamp Act of 1765. Growing political divisions led to the war in April 1775, when the Battle of Lexington and the Battle of Concord first succeeded. General Washington provided thorough training of American soldiers and waged several battles against the English in 1777-1781. By the way, he lost most of his punches.
