SPARK 234: The Freedom you seek is buried under Authority you avoid taking.

By avoiding Authority, you avoid being blamed. But freedom from blame is not Freedom to create. Your first desires for freedom are irresponsible. You want your actions to produce results, but you want to be disconnected from the consequences of your actions. This is like wanting to have a billion dollars in your bank account without realizing who owns the banks and what they are really up to.

SPARK 235: You need space to Hold Space.

To vanish old Possibility, or to cause new Possibility, a Possibilitator requires uncontrolled, undefined, unoccupied free space in which to move around. You need space to hold space. This means that a valuable skillset is: being able to create enough Free Space to work in, even when that does not seem possible. The most obvious solution seems to be stealing away someone else's already-existing Space, called 'Pirating the Space'. However, this approach operates on the Assumption that there is a limited amount of Space available in the Universe. From the scarcity viewpoint, Free Space appears to be a rare resource. However, quite the opposite is true.

PM Adventskalender 2009/2010!

Two years in a row – 2009 and 2010 – a wild team of Possibility Managers created 24 short mostly-German videos to share our Possibility Management discoveries in an Advent Calendar format.

These glimpses are just as hilarious and insightful today as they were when we made them. We hope you enjoy watching these short videos as much as the Team enjoyed creating them.
