Kabanata 33 el filibusterismo buod answer com

Summary: Basilio released from prison. After regaining his freedom, the young man immediately goes to Simun and asks the jeweler to help him start the revolution. Simun is very glad that he got the youth to finally join him. He says Basilio meet with Cablesang Tales at a certain time and place so they can purchase weapons and rifles hidden in The Kiroga Warehouse. Meanwhile, Simun's job is to place a dynamite-laden lamp at an important meeting that will explode to signal an attack. Note points: Simoun had previously approached Basilio and asked Youth to join him in his plan to revolt. It was a while in April, near the end of the semester. The students were taken to prison in mid-April. Basilio was jailed for three and a half months. Frequently asked questions: Why doesn't the Governor-General want to extend his tenure? A: He says he's afraid of what people might say about him behind his back. The real reason is the Governor-General has already amassed enough money for himself and of course with his recent association with Simoun, the jeweler advised him not to make more efforts and invest more money in an attempt to extend his term. In Simoun's interest, however, the Governor-General has already caused enough problems for the nation to corrupt the social system and finally make it ready for revolution. What do most people believe in Simun's relationship with the Governor-General? Answer: It is said that Simun is a demon in human flesh who controls the governor-general and seduces him into doing dishonest things. So when the governor-general leaves the country, Simun will leave with him. What has changed in Simun in the last two months? Answer: He lost his spirit and his life, caused by his doubts about the true object of his planned rebellion. It wasn't like it used to be when he had a clear goal to bring back and save Maria Clara. Now it was different. With the maiden gone, the rebellion was purely designed to satisfy lust, to kill and exact revenge, in order to somehow dull the searing pain of self-pity that he always claimed was for the affected and oppressed Filipinos. This novel, known in English The Reign of Greed, is one of two common novels written by our national hero Jose Rizal (full name Jose Protacio Mercado Rizal Alonso y Realonda). He wrote this novel to meet the eyes of other Filipinos and they will seek true freedom during the Stimulus. The novel has 39 chapters. Now we'll read chapter ten. Chapter 33 has the name Last Just that in another version of La Ultima Razon. Here's a rundown of this chapter: Simun crashed into his bed room one day and didn't want to get distracted. Only Basilio will come in when it comes. A few moments later a young man arrived. Simun was surprised by the young man's appearance. He was thin, the dress seemed dead again. Basilio immediately expressed his desire to join Simun and joined the plans, which he had previously rejected. She said she thought her late parent, Sisa and her sister, Crispin. Simun was ecstatic and went to the lab and highlighted the explosion. Simun said he would use the holiday. It seemed like a lamp or a lamp. Simun instructed Basilio to meet him through the parish of San Sebastian for the final planning process. His prayers were ready, and that's it. Many believe that Simun could not safely leave. He may be avenged by anger at him or by chasing his sense of general election. Simun was trapped in his room. He said Basilio had nothing to accept but Basilio. A young man has come. He went to the team. That changed the basilio. Thin, wrinkled hair and dressed in order. There was no old meekness in his eyes. They were sharp. It was like a body that lived. Even Simun was depressed in the form of a nerve. Basilio told Simun that he was an evil son and brother, that he had forgotten his brother's murder, that God had punished him. He is now ready to retire together. He said his avoidance of trouble as simoun only produced his jail time. She said she'd join Simun. Simun only spoke then. He said he was actually acquitted. His question was about planes like Basilio. Basilio stood up with a bright face. He said the uprising would continue because he wouldn't hesitate anymore. Simun said that our peaceful and thoughtless riots led him to continue his plans. I hope those in high society are already working together, and those below are working are charitable, not bloody and open. In the invitations he found his assistants. Whether they can't make a smooth state enough when they start carving and they will be incredibly flooded. Basilio couldn't understand Simun. They continued in the lab. There was a strange lamp at the table. The very container of Granada, its seemingly bones cracked and even drank. Simun took the wicket. Iron with a vessel two centimeters thick with a gas liter. Simun doused him with liquid. Basilio read the taste in a liquid container - nitroglyzirin. Simun nodded. He explained that Granada is not a simple dynamic. He said they were gathered with tears of oppression that they oppose the force and vow. Basilio had never seen the speakers before. The student couldn't go the other way. Simoun circled with a sophisticated instrument placed in the lamp. Simun said the lamp would be used at the feast. After 20 minutes its leafy hue will be shaded, and when the wick moves, Granada will explode after the pockets of the dining room and no one can save the visitors of the holiday. The unrest would not have been successful due to lack of governance. Now he needs Basilio to lead the conflict. They drove the weapons into The Kiroga store and kill all the opponents and refused to go and kill. Basilio no longer considered the hearing. He was jailed for three-and-a-half months. He wanted revenge. Revenge.
