

BRADLEY J. REUTER

ATTORNEY

FISHER, BREN & SHERIDAN, LLP

PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Bradley is an associate attorney at Fisher, Bren & Sheridan, LLP practicing civil litigation with a primary concentration in insurance defense. He represents insurers, insured individuals, and corporate clients in matters involving personal injury, premises liability, motor vehicle accidents, and complex commercial disputes. Drawing on extensive experience gained while working with the firm prior to becoming an attorney, Bradley is experienced in managing cases from initial intake through discovery and trial preparation. He has drafted dispositive and procedural motions, prepared written discovery and responses, evaluated medical and liability records, conducted coverage and damages analysis, and assisted with deposition preparation and strategic case planning. This background provides him with an understanding of case dynamics and the defense litigation process, enabling him to deliver informed guidance and effective advocacy on behalf of the firm's clients.

Bradley earned his Juris Doctor from the University of St. Thomas School of Law, where he graduated with Cum Laude honors. During law school, he served as an Associate Editor for the St. Thomas Journal of Law and Public Policy, was a Writing Fellow and competed on the TYLA Mock Trial Team. As part of the St. Thomas Appellate Clinic, he represented a client before the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. He also mentor externed for Judge Juan Hoyos, gaining insight into judicial decision-making and courtroom procedure.

Outside of his legal practice, Bradley has been an ice hockey official for more than a decade. He is also actively involved in his community through Young Life Ministry and Loaves and Fishes.
