

Which Culture Do You Live In?

Dear Friends,

Which culture do you live in? Which culture do you source? This is a question you answer every single day through your thoughts, words, and deeds. The question is so important now because the culture you sponsor is not merely a fanciful concept. What you source has consequences. You may have more choice about the culture you source than you think.

The great illusion is that there is only one culture to live in, ‘modern culture’, and that everyone in the world has the same values and either already lives in modern culture, or wants to.

But if you travel outside of your birth culture, if you stay for a while beyond the walls of the ‘all-inclusive resort’, walk the village streets, look into the eyes of vegetable vendors, listen to local people interact with each other, see what is important to them, the illusion immediately cracks. So many different cultures thrive together it can seem like each individual person might actually be living in their own unique culture.

What if that is true? What if instead of trying to find individuality, what we have been struggling to find is togetherness? To find people of our true-heart culture, to find fellow Edgeworkers, the bridge-builders, the culture explorers?

The power of inventing new culture closer to your own needs and desires is a side effect of taking responsibility for how you think about things – your ‘thoughtware’ – becoming aware that each thought you think can either keep you in a rut or start you into a new adventure. If these possibilities interest you, we share here a link to an intimate conversation between the Polish Possibilator Training Team and Clinton Callahan about having integrity with the cultural gameworlds you participate in.

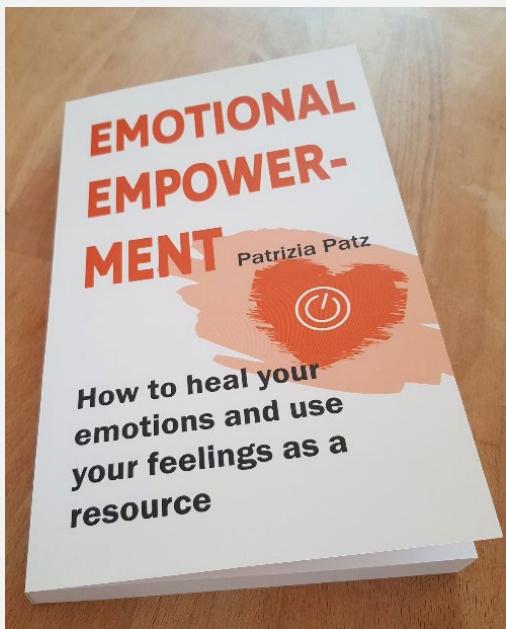

We want to share two possibilities that can support your experimenting. The first is that long-time Possibility Management Trainer and researcher Patrizia Patz from Germany has just published her Emotional Empowerment book in English, granting a wish that many of us have expressed to her. Patrizia’s friendly words are both clear and approachable, helping anyone clarify their inner sensations, and gain powerful new access to a life with vitality and heartfelt connections. Please grab a few copies of Patrizia’s handiwork and spread them amongst your friends. Each book is a doorway to a delightful new future for someone.

The second news is that from Brazil to Poland, from Portugal to Austria to New Zealand, new Bridge-Houses are popping into existence. Not only can you invent regenerative human culture, you can now move into it with others on the Path to Archarchy. Each Bridge-House independently sets its context and culture, sharing the healing and initiatory processes that empower each individual to become a spaceholder for a new Bridge-House! Bridge-House Spaceholders meet regularly online to support each one’s Spaceholding skills.

We thank you for your courage in these times where there is so much necessity to invent new ways.

Emotional Empowerment - How to heal your emotions and use your feelings as a resource

by Patrizia Patz

Feelings and emotions are part of our everyday life. Sometimes we are supposed to show them, sometimes we are supposed to hide them - in other words, to control our emotions. But when we look at it soberly, we are emotionally illiterate. We don't really know what to do with our feelings. Why have we forgotten how to deal with them? Or have we just never learned it? This book provides answers to these questions.
