Juan Carlos Carmona (Colombia).
Psychology Faculty UBO.

“Living in Chile has made me realize that, as Latinos, we are not different, that we are framed by a history and a present that merits a personal contribution to the problems of our countries”.

Yenni Nayid (Colombia).
Ingeniería Metalúrgica USM.

“What has most caught my attention is that Chile is moving towards responsible mining. In fact, many mining companies are implementing biotechnology, which is very important for us as engineers”.

LEARN CHILE PHASES AND TARGET AREAS

An aerial photograph of a solar tower power plant at sunset. The central receiver tower is illuminated, and the surrounding heliostats (mirrors) are arranged in concentric circles, reflecting the golden light of the setting sun. The landscape is a vast, flat, arid plain with distant mountains under a hazy sky.
