If you don't want to wait for your offline zene and beat level, however, go to the date and time of the setup and then set the time forward and then get back into the game and you'll instantly earn currency matching the time you contributed to the clock. You can make this technique as usual as you want. Once you unlock Valkyrie, you'll see that person has her purchased Transcend upgrade abilities, which doesn't unlock up to level 150. And with more battle guides, when you go beyond you'll start the game back, however, with all your cards and emperiums intact. Combat guides can be invested in maps and on the alignment cards that you currently have; However, every battle handbook that you have in hand offers you a 10% DPS boost, so don't invest too many of them. Emperiums are the exclusive currency of the game, and while you can purchase a quick zenium for just 2 each, it creates if you start making numerous purchases, due to the fact that once you start it's hard to stop. Rather, save your zene for big purchases. 50 Emperiums makes you irreversible 2x DPS multiplier. If you invest 30 Emperiums, you can purchase 3 transcendent heroes at the same time, offering you more momentum when you go on. Once you go out of bounds for the first time, you will earn your very first mercenary, and with them, you will be able to participate in missions. Missions take a certain amount of time depeding on the award. More mercenaries can be bought either with Emperium or done by sending a mercenary on specific missions to find more mercenaries. Other awards consist of an increase in DPS, battle guides and more. When an Emperium icon appears on the screen, you'll be able to watch ads for 1 or 2 of them. Even when the icon does not exist, however, go to the store menu (the middle button in the bottom line of the menu) and the ability to watch ads for more Emperium will be permanent. Watch advertising over and over again to develop cash for a 2x DPS pulse, or just watch a couple if all you want is a quick boost to zeini. Gameplay VideosMore OptionsGames You can, as Ragnarok Clicker has just arrived for Android, after debuting recently on the App Store for iPhone/iPad owners and on Steam for PC gamers. Playsaurus and Gravity Interactive have teamed up to release this new game that brings new life to the heroes and monsters of Ragnarok, an MMO game that has been most popular in its country of origin (Korea) and Southeast Asia. If you played Ragnarok back in the day, you won't have much difficulty recognizing the characters in this game, although the mechanics are obviously different - it's a clicker game where you start with just a beginner friend as a companion, and progress in adding more members to your party as you get more skills and damage in a second. You can also get some valuable bonuses by capturing MVP cards, and level up your heroes with zeini. Even if you are an experienced Ragnarok player, there are some things about this game that you will find very different besides the ones we mentioned above. So with that in mind, let's take you to our list of Ragnarok Clicker tips and tricks that should be most useful for first-time players needing some help figuring out the different twists this game has to offer. 1. Your heroes will keep working even when you're offline When it comes to clicker games, you can farm for more currency and other resources while you're offline, but you won't beat any new levels until you get back into the game. Not so in Ragnarok Clicker, where your heroes not only earn zeini while you're away, but also try to beat any levels that you haven't completed, provided you're not on agricultural mode. It's a unique twist that can work in your favor, but there's a way to earn a lot of zeen and beat more levels without having to wait. 2. Try Time Lapse Cheat, But at your own risk so we referenced the tip above, is a time lapse cheat, and it may be worth a try if you go to the phone settings and change the time by moving it a few hours (or a few hours) ahead. Get back into the game and you'll earn currency corresponding to the time you fell on the settings. Some have suggested that you can repeat this hoax as often as you like, but we warn you that game developers often crack down on players who use the time span by punishing them, or even perm-banning them from their servers if caught. 3. Your Emperiums wisely Emperiums are the premium currency of Ragnarok Clicker, and you can use them to buy zeini for two Emperiums units. Units. not much if you think about it, but if you start doing a few shopping in the game, you can easily lose track of things. Instead of making an easy exit, you can save your Emperiums for more important things. You can, for example, get three transcendental heroes at a time by spending 30 Emperiums - in other words, it's gradually a higher boost for each time you go beyond. 50 Emperiums, on the other hand, will allow you to buy a 2x DPS multiplier - permanent, we might add. What happens when you go beyond for the first time? Once you can finally go beyond the game, you will get access to your first mercenary, whom you can take with you as you take on quests. These quests will last a certain period of time, with longer durations like the quality of the rewards does. If you want more mercenaries, you can use your Emperium and spend premium currency on them, or you can have your mercenary go on certain quests to recruit more of them to your business. The quest rewards may also include DPS boosts and combat manuals, which we'll explain a little later in this guide. 5. As Prestige in the game as any clicker game player knows, prestiging is a rather unusual verb, but this jargon used when referring to the reset process of your game with some extra bonuses is still intact, allowing you to progress faster as you give the game another whirlwind from above. In Ragnarok Clicker, prestiging takes the form of the Transcend Valkyrie skill. This skill unlocks once it's at 150, and using this skill will take you back to square one, albeit with all the emperiums and cards remaining at your disposal, with additional combat guides. 6. About Battle Guide Battle Guides are used to purchase new cards and to align the ones you currently have. But since each guide gives you an extra 10 percent boost in DPS, you lose a bit of that DPS boost for every guide you spend; You want to balance the benefits of using your combat aids to buy or upgrade cards, and the benefits of hanging on to them for extra DPS. And this completes our list of guides for Ragnarok Clicker. Do you know any additional tips or tricks to play? Feel free to leave us a message below in the comments section! Section!
