The story of the production of the Valley of the Wolves (Turkish: Kurtlar Vadisi) is an original series created by Osman Sonav, who followed a Turkish intelligence agent working under the alleged identity of Paul Alemdar (Necati Sasmaz) trying to infiltrate the Turkish mafia. It ran for 97 episodes from 2003 to 2005. Valley of the Wolves: Iraq Home article: Valley of the Wolves: Iraq (Turkish: Kurtlar Vadisi: Iraq) is a controversial 2006 spin-off film directed by Serdar Akar, which follows Paul Alemdar (Necati Sasmaz) and his team as they go to northern Iraq during the occupation of Iraq to avenge the deaths of Turkish soldiers. His alleged anti-Americanism and anti-Semitism have attracted interest from the American and European media and other organizations such as the Anti-Defamation League. It was released in Turkey on February 3, 2006 (2006-02-03) and was one of the highest-grossing Turkish films of 2006. Valley of the Wolves: Terror Valley of Wolves: Terror (Turkish: Kurtlar Vadisi: Ter'ter) is a short-lived spin-off of the television series that followed Polat Alemdar in his attempts to infiltrate Kurdish militant networks in Turkey. The first episode of the programme aired on the night of February 8, 2007 and received significant ratings, but the political reflection of Turkey's painful problems and the violence shown in the first episode provoked a sharp reaction from its (Supreme Council for Radio and Television). As a result, the series was canceled after its first episode, creating a controversy about censorship in Turkey. Valley of the Wolves: Ambush Valley of Wolves: Ambush (Turkish: Kurtlar Vadisi: Pusu) is the current spin-off television series that was launched by Pana Film some time after the cancellation of the previous series, and has been running on Show TV since April 20, 2007. It has not yet encountered any responses from the RTPC and attracts high ratings. The new series deals with relations between the state, the mafia, the business community and a deep state phenomenon in Turkey. In the story, Polat decides to wage a vigilante fight against four influential Turkish families who control the national economy by helping Ahu Toros, a young businesswoman who lost her father in a conspiracy by these families. Polat Alemdar's biggest rival is Alexander the Great, who always lags behind him. The pock marries Ebra Duru and lives happily, but in subsequent episodes the situation worsens. The other two main actors are Memati and Abdulhay. Memati is a former specialized mafia (working at the time on Suleiman zaker), but now Memati turns into a good man with a brave heart and a patriot, like Polat, he always follows the orders of Polat. Abdulhay looks like Polat, an agent working for Turkish intelligence and serving his country as a true patriot. The chief antagonist arrives after the third season and is called Aron Feller, a former CIA agent and works in Turkey (or controls Turkey in some way). Shender Bojok is considered an antihero and Aron Feller is considered the main antagonist. After a long struggle-relationship against Eskender Byyik, Paul finally manages to kill his main enemy Eskender Byyik, but he loses his wife Ebru and his young daughter taken by Aron Feller to be brought up as a Christian in the United States. After the death of Seskender Byyik, Polat and his team face a new salary of enemies, they are trying to fight Kurdish terrorism, besides there is a new character, his name is Ersoy Uubey, Ersoy wants to take the deep state of Turkey strength. His methods : terrorism and many relationships with major family leaders like Hashim Asha, Ozset Asha, Yashar Asha, etc. He creates a secret brotherhood to take over Turkey, but Polat and his team must now accept him. At the same time, Polat maintains his relationship with the hitiyalar (elders), they give him new missions, and Polat is chosen as the defender of Turkey. After many episodes, Polat kills Ersoy and the chief antagonist Aron Feller, thus almost destroying Gladio. Through the upcoming episodes, the family of Suleiman zaker returns after 10 years and a new character Kara is introduced, he was the old Polat Alemdar to Polat Alemdar, he also worked for Ichityarlar. As the series goes on, many new characters make an appearance such as: In episode 161, Meth, Mete Ayur, Memdouh Baba, Zeref zazaoglu, Mete Aimar, et al. In episode 161, Memati is killed by a mysterious group, the white elder Hitiyalarlara is also killed by the same mysterious group. Polat and his friends are in shock after Memati's death, they are lost and they can not take revenge. Now Hitiyalar must choose a new white elder, so Adil Erefoglu is elected, Adil Bey is the brother of Dogu Erefoglu, Adila, Dogu and Aslan Akbey, who created a secret mission: Kurtlar Vadisi. After that, Polat had to deal with Beck. Adil tells him all about his past and he also tells him that he looked like Polata in his youth services. He says he formed with his brother Dogu Bey created by KGT (Turkish intelligence service), he also tells Polat that he was the one who formed Aslan Akbey. It later emerged that Senser, one of the elders, was the mastermind behind the killings of Memati Bash and a former white elder. Senser and Adil Erefoglu were later executed on the orders of the elders. A new youth team arrives in Turkey to help Polat complete his mission: Kurtlar Vadisi. After that, all the elders were executed as they disclosed. Paulat told one of his aides to kill himself because he had some secrets, and he meant that if he killed himself, it would be better for the state. After a while, Kahit decides to betray Polat and join the secret organization Temple. He meets Safia Karahanli, where he tries to make her believe in him. Abdullah founded Hoca in the house of peace, being sad because of the death of Polat. As time goes on, Polat is still alive and he was chosen as the new Ichityarlar. Unfortunately, he can't see his family because he's still dead. Kahit meets Margarete and joins a mysterious group. Later he will be introduced by Maestro Ronald and Inspector Kane. Two members of the White Elders were killed by the Templars, and eventually Cahit discovered that there is someone behind Maestro Ronald, so His Majesty, who is the leader of that group. Kara's grandson was killed by Poyraz, where Kara seeks revenge. Polat helps Kara, and they finally killed Poyraz. Cahit contacted Timur, where Polat wanted to surprise him with his presence, but, by mistake, Polat was shot by Cahit. The Templars learned that Abdullah was vice president of the White Elders, but so far they have not been able to decipher Polat. After the death of Inspector Kane, a member of the UN Mr. Key decided to avenge the death of his friend, where he killed many others. Ponat formed a new millitary team called Sia Sankak, which in the future will help fraternal foreign countries. Kahit demolished the entire place and happily left with Kara. Suddenly, in episode 229, Abdullah was killed in the explosion and a bomb was planted in the KGT office. Mr. Kay was finally assassinated by Akif. The new Turkish baron Fehmi Kuzuzadeh, Fehmi on many occasions tried to form a council in order to rule Turkey, which was later assassinated by Polat himself. There were new enemies, such as John Smith, Tilki Andrew from the past series, Saghir, Sadic Britani and others. was introduced the Ebola virus, where he ordered Siyah Sancak to be killed as commander. In episode 233. Omer died after suffering a heart attack in the middle of prayer at a mosque. In episode 244. Nazife was poisoned by Professor Martin. Polat was kidnapped by Templers, where he had the opportunity to speak with His Majesty, where he offers Polat to be the ruler of Turkey under the leadership of the organization. The pot escapes and succeeds with Cahit, he kills His Majesty and takes his mysterious staff. Polat marries Leila in episode 262. Unfortunately, Leila died in an explosion during her honeymoon with Polat. Muro: Damn Humanist Inside Home Article: Muro: Damn Humanist Inside Muro: Damn Humanist Inside (Turkish: Muro: Muro: Lanet Olsun znsangis) is a 2008 spin-off film, directed by zbeir Sasmaz, starring Mustafa Tshundash and Zefik Onatoglu, both two revolutionaries recently released from prison. The film, which was released in Turkey on December 5, 2008 (2008-12-05), is the third highest-grossing Turkish film of 2008. Valley of the Wolves: Gladio's main article: Valley of the Wolves: Gladio (Turkish: Kurtlar Vadisi: Gladio) is a 2009 spin-off of the 2009 film directed by Sadullah zenturk, who follows retired intelligence agent Iskender Bojuk (MusaUzunlar) when he decides to go back at his one-time employer by revealing everything he knows about Gladi. This concerns Turkey's long-standing adventures with deep state and illegal formations embedded in the state and aimed at allowing moviegoers to look closely at the deep gangs that tried to wake up and divide Turkey with subversive plots, according to Bethul Akkaya Demirbas in today's zaman. It was released in Turkey on November 20, 2009 (2009-11-20) and was the fifth highest-grossing Turkish film of 2009. Valley of the Wolves: Palestine Main Article: Valley of the Wolves: The Palestinian Valley of wolves: The Palestinian Valley of Wolves: Palestine is a 2011 spin-off of the 2011 film directed by zbeir Sasmaz, who follows Paul alat Alemdar (Nekati Sasmaz) and his team as they go to Israel to hunt down and shoot down an Israeli military commander who planned to attack and attack Gaza. The cultural impact of Kurtlar Vadisi has become a hit with its references to Turkish politics, its unabashed abuse of social sensitivity to patriotism, and with unprecedented scenes of violence that included murder and torture on television, reviewer of the Daily News' Emrah Guler. Not unlike John Wu's face/off a secret Turkish agent goes through a lot of plastic surgery to infiltrate the mafia, along with a gunman who walks surefooted in this filthy underworld, continues: Two people go through trials of any kind, so that Polat becomes the next baron to break them apart. The hype eventually got so great that the final episodes featured Andy Garcia as the great American mafia boss and Sharon Stone as his wife, eventually lending a kiss to our hero. The lead character, Oma Guler, was in the image of a mafia-macho Turkish guy, according to The Daily News reviewer Emrah Guler, and was delighted with unemployed and disillusioned young people across Turkey. Guler describes him as the Turkish equivalent of the 24th Jack Bauer, entangled in a deep state disguised as a mafia boss. A short and ordinary species, according to Guler, Polat has a self-determined sense of justice that included the hanging of traitors in the center of Istanbul. The series has reached such a cult status that many young people have officially changed their names to Polat Alemdar, Guler concludes. The show was dubbed in Syrian Arabic and turned out to be one of the most popular Turkish dramas to be duplicated in Arabic. Controversy Episode Valley of Wolves: An ambush that depicted Israeli Mossad agents spying inside Turkey and kidnapping Turkish babies has been sharply criticized by the Israeli government and media. The Turkish government's refusal to act at Israel's request for stricter censorship of the show contributed to a deepening scandal between the two countries, culminating in Turkey's threat to recall the ambassador to Israel, Ahmet Oguz Celikkol, following a controversial diplomatic meeting with Israeli Deputy Foreign Minister Danny Ayalon in January 2010.
