

"Online introductory course on ESD for university educators"

Ellen will present you the results of a collaboration of the Flemish universities to develop an online introductory course on ESD. She shows you the structure of the course and the already designed materials. She also gives you some insights in the proces of collaboration to realize this course.

Ellen will frame this course within the possibilities that you have as an institution to work on the professionalization of educators and she will place some critical comments. For you to know: after the official launch in 2019 of this course, Ecocampus, together with the Universities, will prepare an English translation. After presenting the results, there will be room for dialogue and collaborative thinking and looking critically at our own practice.

INTERVENTIONS IN EDUCATIONAL SETTINGS

ELLEN VANDENPLAS
PROJECT EMPLOYEE
ECOCAMPUS
BELGIUM

In a nutshell: she is inspired by the love for people (she has three children), working for a more sustainable world became something she needed to do for them. Also nature inspires her, as it is a place where she finds silence and rest.

Brings along: Katrien Van Poeck: <http://www.cdo.ugent.be/team/van-poeck>

