Call of Duty: Mobile Season 13: Winter War is here. New Black Ops: Cold War Operators Adler - Mountain Drab and Helen Park – Safehouse. Fifty levels of rewards in the new Battle Pass. Play off the new grind. Experience new fan favorite MP card Nuketown Russia, and smuggling intel across enemy lines to earn rewards in the One The Brink seasonal event. I had long waited on the arrival of Call of Duty Mobile, and when it launched soft, I was totally addicted to the game. The game is very well composed, although I suggest that footprint and gunshot markers should be on screen instead of the card, especially for combating royal aspect. Also, Laughter is a very big problem when it comes to a game This. Some enemies won't die until you put a few cuts in them, or you lay as much they appear as they shoot you through walls. There are many game modes and things to unlock, and the game isn't pay to win. For the Zombies game mode, it hasn't been released yet, but I hope I'll be able to play village survival with my friends online. I hope we won't have to pay for the zombies game mode, but a game like this is worth paying money for. When the game is introduced worldwide, I will definitely buy the season pass. Excellent game, even if it's still worked on. 5/5 Stars for you. :) I have tried to contact you several times through the program. Not to get an answer from a payment to win program. The problem is the laughing compensation you introduced into the new update. Every game I play now is pinged at nearly 110. I sit there shooting people with whole magazines of ammo to get hit tags and then be shot with only two bullets myself. I was shooting people with a sparrow and getting hit tags when it hit them clear. I shoot people with a rocket launcher in the face. They kill me, I shoot people with a sniper 5, 6, 7 times for a 1 second delay between the shot and the kill. Where if they shoot me within that 1 second. I die and get a help. I throw off travel mines. They walk straight over the top of it and I get a hit tag. Even just common walks in the game are now laggy. Even the use of death streaks. I have to print it 3 times, specialist is hopeless as it lurches. It wasn't a problem before you got the new update, it ruined the game for me and I'm disappointed if I'm a paying player and wasted my $40 on garbage that's unbearable and unplayable at times. I'm not a bad player. I know you won't respond unless I pay to play so whatever, it would be nice if this problem could be fixed. No, it's not my internet connection, I'm on fiber and no it's not my device I have a 12.9 inch iPad Pro. I've uninstalled and reinstalled the app twice. It's an in game problem and it's annoying. A waste of money. It's a crazy good game. Especially since it's very easy to play for free without paying more money to make progress (but I did it to support it). The cards that are there are great and there are plenty of guns with attachments to unlock. It feels pretty good and there's a lot of ability to change controls as required. However, there isn't a huge amount of cards... For a total overall COD mobile app, it can really do with 5-10 additional cards at least for multiplayer. The graphics although very good, may be much better (kinda feels like a game made about 5 years ago, but it's only released this year). Furthermore, new character skins are few and far between with no clear way to unlock them. With so many iconic characters in the COD universe, it would be good to see a number join the line. Lastly, Zombies are a must, that I cannot wait to be added. The sooner the better. However, I know all this additional content will come on time. I really hope they are constantly and quickly elevated content available with maps, characters, Zombies and better graphics. So for now, 4 stars, but boy it's an amazing game, with great potential. Learn more developer website App Support Privacy Policy Welcome to the Gulag, soldier. Let's hope you're in the fight against form because there are only two ways out of here. Radioactive agent, the seventh season for Call of Duty: Mobile, is offering a new limited time event: Shooting fight in the Gulag. This 2v2 tactical mode takes place on the iconic Gulag of Warzone, the Battle Royale experience of the world of modern warfare®. In this close quarters card, aggression wins and precision the day. Read on for tips on how to work with your teammate to outsmart and condemn the opposition. Map review The Gulag is a small, symmetrical map with three primary vertical lanes that offer a clear view of one spawn to the other. Rows of sinks and shower stalls between the lanes provide cover and visual obstruction for players to weave in and out of view. Don't be fooled - Gulag's simple design doesn't necessarily mean your fights will be simple either. The sinks and shower stalls are big enough and close enough together that you can quickly lose sight of your enemies, suddenly turning every direction in a potential point of attack. Rules of Engagement - Gunfight Before we go in-depth on card strategies, let's review how Gunfight works. It's 2v2, so pair with a friend or matchmaking with a random player to form your team. Your loadout There are no custom loadouts in Gunfight. The game assigns the same charging to all players, consisting of a primary and secondary weapon as well as lethal and tactical equipment. All weapons classes are on the board, from assault rifles to sniper guns as your primary weapon to pistols and launchers as your secondary. The load changes every two rounds. There are no Scorestreaks or Operator Skills in Gunfight, and there's zero health rebirth. Your Mission Gunfight is based around. To win a round, you need to eliminate the enemy team or catch the overtime goal. If neither team catches the overtime goal, the win goes the team with the most health. The first team to win six rounds wins the game. Gulag Tactics These Rounds Are Fast, So Get trigger finger ready and play aggressive. There are two main opening strategies to consider: looking straight down the middle or side lanes to try and catch an enemy out in the open or taking cover to hide from view in an attempt to surprise and flirt the enemy. Aim down attractions if you check the middle or side lane; the milliseconds you save to do so will win rounds against enemies less prepared. Or move between cover to stay out of sight, but don't sit and wait. A still target is an easy target. Stay on the move, seek the enemy and keep moving when you engage them. Use your voice comms and be quick and concise in your calls: middle, left, chase, back spawn, whatever gets the point across. If your teammate isn't talking, look for patterns in their strategy. If they're constantly rushing forward, rush with them when you're ahead or hold back and provide cover when you're down. Switch up your strategies so you don't become predictable. Top 5 Tips 5. Use all your tools. When you hand over a sniper gun, switch to the pistol and rush forward for a near-range attack; use your smoking grenades to confuse and disorient; drop a grenade to blast a pursuing enemy. Always keep them guessing. 4. Overwatch in overtime. Consider using the goal as bait in overtime, especially if your side has more health than the others. The enemy will be forced to take it if they want the victory, and you'll be ready to shoot when they get there. 3. Keep you cool. Even when you're down several rounds, there's always the chance to come back for the win. Take it around through the round, and don't let yourself get frustrated. An overfunded enemy often becomes a predictable enemy. Keep your cool, counter, and knock them off a pen. 2. Resist the Reboot. We're all guilty of it, firing off a few rounds and then rebooting when there's still a lot left in the force. Resist that temptation. Gulag is a small card and being caught halfway through a reboot animation puts you at a serious disadvantage. And if you really need the ammo, consider switching to your secondary instead. 1. Make a new friend. Communication is so important in 2v2, especially in Gulag where enemies can quickly disappear from sight. If you find a good teammate, send them a friend invitation and pair for more games. Your winning rate will shoot up and you can even make a new friend in the process. See you in the Gulag. For the latest intel, be sure to visit the Call of Duty: Mobile website.
