Hedgehog book craft

I don't think I'm exaggerating when I say that this is probably the cutest animal book craft you'll see today. If you like hedgehogs and you don't mind tearing apart a book or two... this craft is for you! Read on to see how I made this adorable paperback book hedgehog! This craft is not meant for the faint of heart. No animals were harmed during crafting, but I did tear apart a paperback book. (My eldest son was horrified.) So consider this your warning! Last week, I finally made my first book art craft. Have you seen all the beautiful things people make from folding book pages? I've never tried this particular craft myself, but paper folding crafts always appealed to me since we love making origami crafts. With that being said, this clearly is not an original idea. Any quick search on google will reveal hundreds of these adorable little hedgehogs. But I'm sharing mine on here today just in case you haven't yet seen this sweet craft before. Old paperback book Scissors Nimble folding fingers :) Hot glue + gun Pom Pom Googly Eyes Construction Paper Marker Step 1: Tear off the front and back cover from your paperback book. Go ahead, I won't judge. Step 2: I only used about 130 pages to create my hedgehog. So if you have a very long book, simply tear it into sections accordingly. (And use the other sections to make a whole army of hedgehogs... or other animals!) Step 3: Start from one end of the book and begin making your folds. Fold the page in half (toward the book's binding.) Then, fold down both corners to meet the binding. Keep repeating these folds for every single page. (I folded all the pages from one end of the book one way and all the pages from the other end of the other way. Here's a photo of where the two "sides" meet.) Once you're finished, your book hedgehog should look like this! (This folding will take awhile. So watch tv, listen to your favorite podcast, or craft with a bunch of friends and catch up on the gossip! Step 4: Cut out 4 identical paws. Also, grab your googly eyes and pom pom. Use a hot glue gun to attach the pieces. Draw little toes if you'd like. And that's all! And just because he's so photogenic, I might have taken a couple too many photos. But how can you blame me with that sweet face? Super Cute Hedgehog String Art DIY Hedgehog Ring Toss I really hope you enjoy making this craft too! It's a perfect one to do inside the house when you're stuck inside on a cold or wet day. Don't have pom poms? Don't have googly eyes? Just use construction paper. It will be just as cute. I promise. And if you make one, tag me on IG (@pinkstripeysocks) to show me! I love seeing your crafting adventures too. Happy crafting and stay healthy, friends! Page 2 Page 3 This absolutely precious little old book hedgehog craft is so fun to make! Why decorate with a hedgehog you ask? Because it's so fun and cute! This project is all about folding paper into a shape that looks like a hedgehog. With a few simple accent pieces, an ordinary book suddenly turns into a cute little woodland creature you will love. Old Book Hedgehog Craft We have quite a little menagerie of animals around our home. While we have two indoor cats, we also have squirrels, bunnies, birds, and a few groundhogs around the outside of our home that we feed routinely. In the past, I even had a wild hedgehog that would roam around our neighborhood. They are absolutely adorable little creatures, so a perfect little craft to add to my list of animals and creatures to recreate in paper. This is just one of those super fun projects that makes you feel happy. While I will share a few ways you can display this below, I really do love it just because. Why wouldn't you want a little paper hedgehog hanging out on a shelf in your home. Can I Make This Using Just Paper? While you can create a similar project using just paper, it will be a bit more difficult to manage. The ease of this project is that the paper is already connected on one side. This makes it a simple process of folding pages rather than folding and then gluing them individually together. Ultimately, the best way to use different types of paper to create your hedgehog is to connect your chosen paper on one side. Stacking the pages together, then hot gluing on one edge and letting it sit until hardened is one method that could work for this hedgehog craft. What Ways Can I Decorate My Paper Hedgehog? I love taking the simple books and turning them into something rustic and unique. For this craft, I kept things overall, pretty simple. I added a few paper leaves on the bottom, but there are other ways to have fun with the hedgehog and create a new look. As with all of my projects here, I highly encourage using your imagination to get creative with different styles, accents, and embellishments. Below are a few fun ways to make yours look unique. Use different colors of paper for the hedgehog spikes you glue in after creating the creature. Paint stripes onto the book pages to look more like a regular hedgehog. Add glue along the edges of the folds and then sprinkle on glitter for sparkle. Attach a length of twine or ribbon to the top and hang the hedgehog from the ceiling. How Can I Display This Hedgehog Craft? You may be a bit curious about how to use this. What purpose does a book turned into a little creature serve? Well, not only does it bring a smile because it is cute, it can be a great decoration for a few different things. I love the idea of adding this to a shelf in a baby nursery or child's room that is decorated with a woodland creature. It really fits that theme and looks adorable on a shelf. Another way to use this would be as a centerpiece for a baby shower or kids birthday party that has an animal theme. Imagine poking a sign down into the center of the hedgehog to stand above with a name, birthday greeting, or monogram! How adorable would that be for a special baby shower decoration! I personally added this to an upper shelf in my office on a book case. I love displaying my favorite books on shelves, and this went perfectly next to my collection of children's fairy tales and fiction. It just adds to the character of the bookcase and makes me smile every time I see it sitting there. Supplies Needed How to make an Old Book Page Hedgehog Remove the cover from an old book. Tear 4-5 pages from the book and set aside. Fold the book page down and inward at an angle. Now, fold the rest of the page over vertically inward. At the bottom edge of the page, fold a small corner down. This will create one end longer and pointier than the other – the longer end will be the face end of the hedgehog. Continue this process until the book has completely been folded or you are happy with the size of the hedgehog. If you wish to use only part of the book, simply use a craft knife to trim off the back excess pages from the book. Next, take 4-5 book loose pages from a book or colored paper, and fold them in half. Unfold the pages and cut them in half. Now, stack the halves together, and trim one end into spikes. Every few folds of the hedgehog, glue a half page with spikes facing upward in between folds. Do this as many times as you wish, but I suggest every 3-4 pages. Now, you will attach eyes and a nose to the pointy end of the hedgehog. If you want to add the leaves around the bottom as shown, you will cut out small squares or rectangles of the colored paper. Draw or freehand cut out a leaf shape. Cut little lines around the edges to make the leaf look more natural with fringe. Use a marker to draw a few little lines on the leaves so they look more life like. Glue the leaves to the bottom of the outside pages of the hedgehog. Now you can display your hedgehog on a shelf or as a centerpiece. If you get tired of trying to make sharp even folds, invest in a paper folding tool. These are similar in shape to a knife, but have no sharp edges. I can't say how handy these are with paper crafts.
