today, especially students, do not really know what first aid and what is a proper response to an emergency situation, these games will help them to learn and enhance their knowledge of first aid. Young people will be delighted and encouraged to learn first aid by playing Dr. Dash on their mobile phone.

Since mobile phones, internet and games became popular, the percentage of children using them has been increasing year by year. The youth of today are more glued to their phones, spending their time watching content on YouTube and other social media sites and playing the popular games that provide them with entertainment and fun. In addition to enjoying games, amusement, and entertainment, kids who use mobile phones should also learn something. Playing should impart some knowledge or lessons, especially for younger children.
