THE HOCKEY HERALD

A Vintage Look at Canada's Game

80TH ANNIVERSARY SEASON • THE 1970s

THE DECADE THAT CHANGED HOCKEY!

From the Summit Series to the rise of a new hockey powerhouse, the 1970s brought unforgettable moments on and off the ice.

THE GOAL HEARD AROUND THE WORLD

In September 1972, Canada held its breath as Team Canada faced the Soviet Union in an eight-game showdown that captivated the nation. With just 34 seconds remaining in the final game, Paul Henderson scored the winning goal, sealing one of the most celebrated victories in Canadian sporting history. Hockey would never quite be the same.

A NEW LEAGUE SHAKES UP HOCKEY

The World Hockey Association arrived in 1972, challenging the NHL and changing professional hockey. By 1979, four WHA franchises, including the Edmonton Oilers, joined the NHL, bringing a young Wayne Gretzky onto hockey's biggest stage.

EAGLES WIN LEAGUE TITLE IN '72

While the world watched the Summit Series, Innisfail had hockey heroes of its own. The 1971–72 Eagles captured the Chinook Hockey League championship, adding another title to the team's growing history and giving local fans plenty to celebrate.

THREE GENERATIONS OF TRUST

A family legacy rooted in service, community and co-operation

Some businesses grow over time. Others become part of a family's story.

For McGillivray Insurance & Financial Services Corp, representing Co-operators in Innisfail, that story now spans three generations.

Kelvin McGillivray joined the family business in 1988, continuing a tradition of helping families, farmers and business owners protect what they have worked hard to build.

Today, that commitment continues through personal service, trusted advice and strong community relationships.

1978

Co-operators officially adopted The Co-operators Group Limited name.

From its beginnings with Canadian farmers, Co-operators was built on a simple idea: people working together can build something stronger than they could alone. That founding philosophy continues to guide the organization today.
