

Hunter is an upcoming Sophomore at Pace University studying Commercial Dance in New York City. He grew up in Southern Maryland and trained at Power Explosion Studio of Dance for 8 years before moving to CityDance School and Conservatory in Bethesda. Hunter grew up as a jazz dancer but soon fell in love with contemporary and ballet after diving deeper into the dance world and training in other genres. He has trained with alumni from So You Think You Can Dance, including Karla Garcia and Ade Obayomi, as well as alumni from Nederlands Dans Theater, Koresh Dance Company, and the Dance Theater of Harlem. Hunter has a passion for teaching and choreography and is thrilled to share his knowledge at B. Funk. He looks forward to the creative process and is eager to watch our young dancers improve and grow throughout the year.