It's available almost everywhere, it's reduced to ultimate simplicity, and it constantly saves you work, so you don't have to. This is what Adam calls the Holy Grail of ubiquitous text capture. Two Android customers provide the best Simplenote experience. This author prefers the paid ($2.37-ish) SolidNote, but only because of the slight polish on the controls and seemingly less lag during input. mNote, a free alternative, does just as well as work just by displaying and saving your Simplenote stuff, and maybe you won't experience the same lag. Despite all the cool performance modern technology was born, the holy grail for me... Others have ideas that they should outline, even if only the most elementary forms. For the latest crew, there's Thinking Space, a mind-mapping app for Android that makes it easy to piece together disparate ideas and pull them out later in handy form-image files, via email, however you need them. Thinking Space for Android AppBrainAK NotepadIf Simplenote synchronization is not your thing, and if you're a fan of the yellow-legal-style iPhone Notes app, the AK Notepad is probably exactly what you need. It's a simple client note, but it also allows those notes to work in and around your phone. Set reminders to note to ping you later, pin a specific note to your Android home screen, tag notes for search, and back them up on an SD card or Catch.com, the creator of another app on that list. AK Notepad (AppBrain)Evernote and Springpad Than words can enter into a piece of text. Images dictated by notes, web links, and more can be pieces of the puzzle. Evernote is a more established universal capture tool that syncs with almost every available computing platform, and its Android client has just undergone an overhaul, making it a very viable tool. But also dug up as Springpad popped up while Evernote was still getting its Android base, providing a nicely different alternative. Both tools are free, and make your Android smartphone into a kind of secretary who follows you everywhere, waiting to hear hear the latest thoughts that should end up inside your work.iPhone/Android: The previously mentioned web service Springpad is a great web laptop and ... They can be a simple reminder. Insert your quick thoughts somewhere noticeable with ColorNote-right under your Twitter client link, maybe? - And you hopefully remember that first draft is due, by email, that person with a question, or whatever else you need to get your words done. ColorNote (AppBrain) We really appreciate your help (via Twitter) in culling together this list. If you have additional app recommendations that make it easier to write, brainstorm, and other type-y tasks on Android, tell us about them in the comments. Finding great wallpaper and backgrounds for your Android device isn't all that difficult. There are a ton of applications that can do this task. In addition, a simple Google image search can also show you some unique options. The trick is to find apps that work best for you and find the kind of material you want to see. Let's take a quick look at the best backgrounds and wallpapers for Android apps! We also recommend NASA's official app for some excellent space wallpaper. AbstractRedditResplashSphaeraTapetPrice: Free/$1.99Abstract is one of the new wallpaper apps on the list. This is Hampus Olsson, designer for all the wallpapers on OnePlus phones. It has different abstract wallpapers in different colors. There are about 300 backgrounds in total, and they are all in 4K resolution as well. We expect more to hit the app as time passes. It's also a great way to get all the wallpaper from OnePlus devices without buying one. The premium version goes for $1.99.RedditPrice: Free/$2.99 per month/$29.99 per yearReddit is one of the surprisingly good wallpaper apps. There are subreddits with tons of decent wallpaper selection in multiple resolutions. The site also has a search for faster and simpler results. Most Reddit users post images on Imgur. This makes Imgur a decent app for wallpaper as well. It may take a bit to find good things. However, there are a lot of great things here. In addition, the main Reddit accounts are free. You can additional features with Reddit Gold. We recommend r/ultrahdwallpapers, r/ultrahdwallpapers, r/wallpaper, and r/WQHD_Wallpaper for some really good things. It's also a great option for devices with certain screen styles like The Samsung Kick Hole. ResplashPrice: Free/up to $10.99Resplash is one of the new wallpaper apps. It's a great source of wallpaper photography. The app boasts over 100,000 wallpapers with new wallpapers every day (or so they say). The user interface is decent and easy to use. Photos are more than high enough resolution for any phone screen. It even comes with some light settings features like dark mode and different layout options. There are some parts that could be better, but this is a very positive experience in general. It's also great for photography lovers. SphaeraPrice: $0.99Sphaera is one of the most unique wallpaper apps. This allows you to take a segment of the map and paint it to fit your home screen. You can use maps mainly from anywhere in the world, including your hometown. In addition, the app has over 30 seats to choose from if you want something like this. Each wallpaper generates up to 4k resolution and you can change colors to match your style. Yes, it also includes AMOLED black as an option. Recent updates have also added a feature of live wallpaper if you want it. The app runs for $0.99 up front, but has no other purchases in the app. TapetPrice: Free /Up to $19.99Tapet is one of the most unique wallpaper apps. He doesn't come with a choice to choose from. Instead, you choose design and colors. The app makes wallpaper of your choice. It's a great way to get the good, minimal wallpaper in the colors you want. It also comes with Muzel support, download function and more. The app uses the screen resolution of your device to customize the quality. It helps to get guesses. Either way, it's really good. Vectorify da homePrice: FreeVectorify yes home is another unique wallpaper app. It uses vector graphics for clean, colorful wallpaper. Basically, you choose a style, choose a color scheme, and the app generates wallpaper. The wallpaper is high-resolution and there are some fun little designs. The process is also simple and there is a bit of customization as well. In addition, the app itself comes with a light and dark mode for your viewing pleasure. It's totally free and easily one of the best wallpaper apps. Wallpaper from GooglePrice: FreeWallpapers from Google is a worthy wallpaper app. It has a small but decent selection of wallpapers. The app has other features, including a separate lock screen and home screen wallpaper, an automatic set feature for new wallpapers every day, and more. The app has a few bugs. Facebook, his collection is not so great. However, it has some really high quality stuff. It's also completely free without advertising or in-app purchases. WallPPrice: Free (with ads)WalP is a fun wallpaper app. It includes various stock wallpapers from a bunch of OEMs. It boasts collections from Samsung, Sony, Android shares, Oppo, and about two dozen other brands. You just open the app, surf through, and find the wallpaper you want. The app itself has a light and dark theme for your viewing preferences along with a blur filter, saturation filter, push notifications for new wallpaper and an automatic shifter if you want something different every day. It seems to have hit all the right notes and worked well in our testing. WalpyPrice: Free/$1.99Walpy is another new wallpaper app on this list. It has a bunch of great wallpapers in pretty high resolution. However, this app also changes your wallpaper at different points in the day. It doesn't rely on timers like most. Instead, it waits for the phone to charge or on WiFi to change the background. There is a lot of variety. However, Walpy is mostly photography, so you won't find abstract stuff or anything like that here. It's a neat solution with some decent choices. Bonus: Google SearchNPrice: FreePerhaps is the easiest wallpaper app Google Search. You're just looking for what you want. The plus is that you can get creative with searching and find basically everything you want. The downside is that you have to get creative to find good things at all. There is a lot of fluff when it comes to wallpaper and backgrounds and Google Search doesn't filter anything. Either way, we recommend you start with Google Search or finish with it if none of these other wallpaper apps do the trick. Bonus: WallPixPrice: FreeWallPix is a wallpaper app developer with several different wallpaper apps. Apps for specific devices and take into account things like blow a hole camera cut. One for the S20 line of devices, the other for the Note 20 device line, and one for the OnePlus 8. Choosing wallpaper is just fine, but the vast majority of wallpapers use the phone to blow the camera hole as decoration or deftly hide it completely. We've contacted the developer's Google Play page so you can check out all of them. There is a fourth app Which includes minimal wallpaper with AMOLED-friendly choices. There are other apps that cover a punch hole or cutout on other devices as well as other developers if you want to go that We missed any of the best backgrounds and wallpaper apps, tell us about them in the comments!
