We can pay him in cash, check, transfer of funds, and one of them is a demand project. The demand project is widely used in India for cash stuff. In most cases, demand projects are used when paying university fees etc. Not just to pay university fees there are many other applications too. If you have already done a demand project and want to cancel the demand project at Bank Corporation. Then I will help you do it today. In this article of my, I mentioned the procedure you have to follow to do so. So now, without spending a lot of time on your let's start with the article and check the procedure, after which you can cancel the project demand at Corporation Bank. Before we proceed to further part of this article I would like to make one thing clear. And that's you can't undo the demand of the project online. There is no such provision for the corporate bank, so you will have to personally visit the bank branch and cancel the draft requirement. Once you create a DD the amount will be instantly deducted from your bank account it will be taken from you. You already know this because you've already done DD. Now the scenario is you want to cancel the same thing and want to get the money back. The things you should have with you right now to cancel the DD are getting a cash payment and initial project demand. You can cancel your DD on two occasions and they,1) you paid in cash for your project demand. If you have paid in cash for DD, then you should visit the bank branch and submit the original DD and receive the cash payment that you received when you paid in cash. DD will be delivered back to the bank and you will get the money instantly. But please keep in mind that you won't get the full amount back. The bank will deduct some amount from the actual amount, like cancellation fees.2) You paid money from your account for project demand. If you have paid the money directly from your bank account, then the procedure is to cancel the DD change. In this case, you have to fill out a DD repeal form. You can get a cancellation form at a bank branch, just ask bank officials to provide one. You must complete the cancellation form with all the information given in the form. When you finish filling out the form submit it along with the original demand project and the amount will be refunded to your bank account. Even so, some cancellation fees will be deducted by the bank. These are two methods that you can follow to undo DD, if you have lost DD somewhere, then it will be a hard job to get the money back. I recommend you talk to bank officials if you lost it somewhere. Because they can explain procedure is better than me in case of loss of DD. Conclusion So here's how you can cancel the demand project at Corporation Bank. I hope you are clear with all the information that is mentioned in this guide. But in case you have any doubts, then you can comment below. Below. how to fill demand draft form of corporation bank
