Label to CincodeMayo.yourlastnameCinco de Mayo celebrating the victory of the Mexican army over the French army fighting puebla on May 5, 1862.It was a major victory because it was unexpected. France at that time was still very strong and had a lot of troops in Mexico. Why were French troops in Mexico? I'll be back in a few years. Mexico gained independence from Spain in 1810. But Mexico's war with the United States and the Mexican civil war almost completely wiped out the Mexican Treasury. During these wars, Mexico had borrowed heavily from European countries, including France. In the early 1860s, Mexico stopped reimbursing France. France's response was to invade Mexico.The French had tried to make Archduke Maximilian the Austrian ruler of Mexico. Under his command, French troops marched from the Gulf of Mexico toward Mexico City.Mexican General Ignacio Zaragoza and about 5,000 poorly armed troops met in the 6,000-strong French army at the Battle of Puebla. Mexico's victory was incredible. It stopped the French cold, at least for awhile. But more French troops returned, and this time they succeeded. The French rule of Mexico was short, however. In 1867, pressure from the United States and other foreign concern persuaded France to leave its Mexican empire. Mexico was free again. The role of puebla battle is the ability of a smaller, poorly equipped army to defeat a larger, well-equipped army. The Mexican people also showed that they are ready to defend their homeland from the invaders. This victory also struck a hole in the mysticism of Europe, which believed that European governments and armies were by their very nature stronger than other, smaller countries and their armies. Today people celebrate Cinco de Mayo in a big way. They have festivals and fiestas. They dance special dances and eat special foods. They play special music on special instruments. They participate in sporting events. They wear clothes in red and green colors of the Mexican flag. They have a celebration big and small. One of the largest is outside City Hall in Los Angeles, where over 500,000 gather each year. Small family gatherings are also popular. Mexican flags are everywhere you look. Like the pictures of General Ignacio Zaragoza, who won the Battle of Puebla in 1862. Celebrating Cinco de Mayo is an opportunity to honor the memory and courage of the Mexican soldiers who fought for their country. It is also an opportunity to celebrate the culture of Mexico itself.
