At the Centers for Cancer Treatment in America® (CTCA) in Philadelphia, you will get personal care from a group of experts, all under one roof. We offer a wide range of services used for a comprehensive diagnosis and treatment plan. A team of doctors, doctors and support staff provides integrated cancer treatment tailored to your needs. Our departments include: Breast Reconstruction after mastectomy Critical care Gastroenterology Genetics Genetics Genitourinary Cancer Program Gynaecological oncology Hematology Oncology Infusion Center Radiation and Radiology Laboratory Medicine Lymedema Clinic Medical Oncology Medical Oncology Medical Oncology Orthopaedic Oncology Skin, The Study of Sleep Surgery Nurses at the Centers for Cancer Care of America® (CTCA), Phoenix, underfloor atmosphere in accordance with the Standard Mother® of Care® –principle focused on the patient at ® CTCA®. Our nurses create an environment that supports work-life balance, teamwork and professional development, reflecting our commitment to providing quality care that is at the heart of patients. Embarking on our Journey to Magnetic Excellence® Magnet Recognition Program® is considered the gold standard of nursing excellence, identifying health organizations that provide high-quality patient care and expertise in nursing. Of the more than 5,000 hospitals in the U.S., less than 8 percent are magnetically determined. In 2017, CTCA Phoenix officially began a massive process to become one of them. The Flame Awards The Flame Award for Unit Excellence recognises the nurse's gi/endoscopic units, which have demonstrated a commitment to infection prevention, a supportive and educational work environment and positive patient outcomes. Gastrointestinal Nurses, Elaine Jewett, BSN, RN, CGRN and Tess Magat, BSN, RN, CGRN and GI Technician Juan Avila received the Flame Award in 2018 to identify four years of further education, participation in educational programs and consistent participation and participation in annual conferences. Jewett and Magat hold positions on the U.S. Board of Certified Gastroenterology Nurses, and CTCA Phoenix hosted the organization's annual conference in November 2019. The Daisy Award for Emergency Nurses Foundation DAISY was set up by a patient family who wanted to find a way to thank the nurses and honour the work they do every day. DAISY partners with health organizations to recognize the clinical abilities and compassion of nurses. These are excerpts from nomination letters for three recent DAISY award recipients from CTCA Phoenix: Maria Hoag, BSN, RN: Maria provided me with an extraordinary service during my unheary stay. She was very focused, communicating and comforting. She listened with her heart all the time and paid close attention to my needs. She was so wonderful to family and photographed with my mother, as He said goodbye. Maria certainly has the ability to assess, to notice tiny changes that are not detected by the monitors. Danielle Kopas, BSN, RN, OCN: During chemotherapy, my husband's wedding ring fell off and she dug up trash in the bathroom to help us find it. He wasn't in there, but she told another proportion when she was cleaning the area and they found him. My husband was very upset about it, and this is our day when they found him. It also showed me that he was much more sentimental than I would ever have thought, and that was a blessing indeed. Jodi Klemm, BSN, RN, OCN: Jodi Klemm is the hands-down best nurse I've ever had. She literally saved my life this week. I called her before the check-up on Monday and asked her if she could get me on the schedule for a chest X-ray for a lack of breath and severe cough. She took care of it right away. When I got there, the X-ray on my chest was alarming and I had to have surgery the next day. Jodi saved my life. Indisputably, he's a great star here at the CTCA. Professional development Of Nursing Leadership at CTCA Phoenix is committed to professional development of nurses at various levels throughout the organization. CTCA Phoenix has several programs that focus on continuing the education of our nurses, such as professional certification programs, online learning platforms, evidence-based resource practices, and tuition reimbursement benefits. Professional development is key to achieving and maintaining a culture of care excellence that is essential for ensuring quality patient care. Nursing Innovation Nurses at CTCA Phoenix are dedicated to advancing research into nursing and evidence-based practices. Nursing research approved by the Institutional Review Board is being conducted at CTCA Phoenix to expand knowledge and improve nursing practices related to cancer care. These studies are aimed at acquiring new skills to improve patient outcomes and the working environment for nurses. Caring for the community Our nurses do not prioritize quality cancer care for patients at CTCA Phoenix, but also support and volunteer care in the local community. Nurses at CTCA Phoenix provide screening and comprehensive health education in the community through a mission to improve wellness and health. October 21, 2009 3 min read Brought to You by Touring and Degusting Ravenswood Winery Sonoma, California Ravenswood Winery began life in 1976 when winemaker Joel Peterson scrambled to harvest eight tons of Sonoma County Zinfandel before the rains fell. Joel knew the raven was a con man who taught people how to survive. Joel learned well. In the 1960s and 1970s, he recalls, The European wines I admired were made in a relatively primitive way, without much technological interference. I Why Ravenswood couldn't. Couldn't. Old-world methods, if you'd pay attention. Why eliminate the tradition by replacing technology more akin to food processing than winemakers? Because of this philosophy, Ravenswood uses relatively archaic techniques of winemaking. For example, instead of sterilising grape juice with sulphur and adding a commercial yeast culture, the cellars use native vine yeasts that have a wider range of flavors and flavours. They also ferment in small, open containers and allow the juice temperature to warm up to extract all possible colour and taste. The wine remains in contact with its skins for weeks rather than the days after which it is aged in small French oak barrels. Working with various Zinfandel growers, Joel discovered that many of these carefully cultivated vineyards give distinctive flavor profiles from certain spots. The result is Ravenswood's Prized Vineyard

Designate Series. These unique, handmade wines are very limited in production and are only available for flavor in Ravenswood's Visitor Center. But that's just one reason people visit Ravenswood. The winery is a regular Department of Information with entertainment educational programs that help guests improve their IQ of wine. There is even an official winemaker on staff who leads visitors every morning through the historic Estate Vineyard, with some of the oldest clones in the area. From there, he shows them the judge and Ravenswood's non-weasty winemaking process, and often shares the taste-- right from the soda. On working weeks, the afternoon tour involves combining wine and cheese. For a lesson, visitors can book a place at the Mixing Seminar. No wonder visitors return the next day to further educate themselves and enjoy the delicious veals that are only in the room. Getty ImagesAs may remember last year, the Justice Department announced it would replace alexander hamilton's image in a $10 bill with a portrait of a woman who helped shape U.S. history. However, Foreign Affairs Minister Jack Lew is expected to announce plans this week to replace the image of the country's seventh president, Andrew Jackson, in a $20 bill with a $20 bill. Women. According to a government source, the new law will honor the fight for equal rights and racial equality. On $10, the Justice Department will keep Hamilton in the bill and reclassikin the other way around, replacing the building's resemblance with the treasury with the mural image of the women's suffocation movement. We're not saying that the hit Broadway musical Hamilton is behind this decision, but they don't say that. The success of the hip-hop smash hit helped the pro-Hamilton movement, which urged the Department of Justice to keep the first Secretary of the Treasury at $10. With Lew's announcement, the women who shaped this country's history for the better will finally be recognized on our currency. Not only that, they will replace one of the most controversial presidents who has ever held office - a man who is rehabilitating one of the most destructive and despicable periods in the history of the United States. And if I'm completely superficial, the best man in the U.S. currency (sorry, Ben Franklin) will stay in place. As exciting as the news is, the currency will not change overnight. As the Ministry of Justice has to take comprehensive measures with updated plans to prevent counterfeiting, it would be put into circulation in the 20th century. Change.
