The brand has always been very loyal to the Spanish culture, and this is what makes them unique from other clothing brands. Mural of the Columbus Trail This is one of the most visited locations in Barcelona. It is right in front of the main station and offers great views. It is also home to some of the coolest vintage shops in town. The wall paintings on the Columbus Trail are actually copies of the originals painted by English street artist Banksy. These pieces are fairly easy to miss if you're just strolling down the street, so if you don't mind an adventure you should definitely stop by. It's great to go here during Barcelona Design Week or during Christmas time. Oriol Sardà Oriol Sardà was born in Barcelona, Spain, in 1960. He is one of the most creative designers of our time. His work focuses on luxury garments and accessories. He has worked for many well known brands such as Hermès, Loro Piana, Cerruti, Nike, and Ann Demeulemeester. He is also the founder and creative director of Sardà, a creative platform for the top international fashion brands. El Raval This is a pretty small neighborhood in Barcelona, but it has some of the most famous Spanish flamenco dancers. There are some amazing street performances to enjoy here and it's easy to see why they are so popular. The restaurants and bars in El Raval are also pretty cool. Oceanographic Museum The Oceanographic Museum in Barcelona is devoted to the ocean and coastal life. It is home to over 40,000 pieces of marine specimens, including sharks, dolphins, whales, and many other species. The collection dates all the way back to the 19th century and is maintained by the Museo de Ciencias Naturales. We would like to thank Dr. Aaron Petoskey for his advice and technical assistance in the mouse experiments. We thank Dr. James A. Hevey and Dr. Stephen Morin for comments on the manuscript. This work was supported by the National Institutes of Health (Grant P01 CA103034 to W.O. and Grant GM59252 to C.E.B.).
