Candy Camera is a photo app that allows you to add a touch of style to your photos, as it offers you a wide range of filter, frame and adhesive options. The most interesting thing about Candy Camera is that you can see, in real time, how some of the different filters it provides will be without having to take the photo. You just have to slide your finger along the screen to browse through the different filters available. Once you take the photo, of course, you will have even more possibilities at your disposal. You will find all kinds of stickers to decorate photos, as well as different frames and post-processing filters. Candy Camera is a relatively good application. While it was designed along Instagram lines, and in many ways is better than Instagram in terms of editing and customizing photos, it doesn't have an integrated social network. So, you can share your photos on Twitter or similar networks. Uptodown is currently under maintenance. We will be back soon. JP-brothers, Inc. Photography See take a selfie!
