and i am an old dialup user I already have a job gubaliz: that's odd, when you do a search on #ubuntu, it works perfectly for me, maybe try doing '!login' in the server and maybe ask again? !help Please don't ask to ask a question, simply ask the question (all on ONE line and in the channel, so that others can read and follow it easily). If anyone knows the answer they will most likely reply. :-) See also!patience !patience Don't feel ignored and repeat your question quickly; if nobody knows your answer, nobody will answer you. While you wait, try searching or or !login use @login SchrodingersScat, it says "E: Unable to locate package gpusync-bin" MrSassyPants: so what is saying 'can not find'? I'm trying to get OpenCL to work with my GPU And I can't find a.deb for it It just says "can not find" !info gpusync-bin gpusync-bin (source: gpusync-bin): simple GPU benchmark utility. In component universe, is optional. Version 0.14.3-1 (wily), package size 17 kB, installed size 116 kB MrSassyPants: hmm It's still version 0.14.3-1 520fdb1ae7
