Choices and connections an introduction to communication pdf

Steven McCornak is a professor and principal of the basic course in the Department of Communication Studies at the University of Alabama Birmingham. His scientific interests include producing deceptive discourse and discerning deception. Steven teaches undergraduate and postgraduate courses on public speaking, inter-person communication, relationship communication, and language/discourse. He has received several awards for undergraduate teaching excellence, including the Amoco Foundation Excellence in Teaching Awards, the Oqoo Lilly Teaching Fellowship, and the National Association of Communications's Donald H. Ecroyd Award for Outstanding Teaching in Higher Education. Joseph Ortiz AuthorJoseph has taught for more than 30 years, starting in 1983 at Clovis Community College (NM). He joined the Scottsdale Community College School in 1989, where he teaches courses on human communication, inter-personality and small-group communication and digital storytelling. In support of student learning, Joseph is heavily involved in using classroom evaluation tools, service learning, collaborative learning methods, and online technology use. A campus leader, he served as head of the fine arts department, chairman of the Senate faculty, and interim head of education associate. Joseph is the recipient of outstanding peer-nominated teaching awards at Clovis Community College (formerly eastern New Mexico University in Clovis) and Scottsdale Community College. In addition, he is recognized as a teacher by the National Institute of Staff and Organization Development. Joseph holds a bachelor's degree in lectures from Lamar University (T), a master's degree in communication from the University of Eastern New Mexico, and an Ed D in higher education and adults from Arizona State University. Based on decades of teaching experience along with the latest research and communication theory, Steve McCornak and Joseph Ortiz's Choices & Connections, 2e helps students transform their lives and become more adaptive and versatile interfaces. By focusing on the connections that all communication choices are understood—and the results that students experience are deeply connected to the communication choices they make—Choices & Connections, 2e weifies major communication areas to co-ording students' perceptions. Captivating students from the front page, the text is highlighted by the built-in study tools, innovative video activities studied, and a variety of news, pop culture, and real-life examples—all of which encourage students to apply what they learn to their daily communication experiences. When combined with LaunchPad, Choices & Connections, 2e represents a unique print and digital learning suite: how to communicate students' immersed video activities in challenging scenarios, real life, and additional videos representing communication concepts. The adaptive exam program, LearningCurve, creates a personalized learning experience. LaunchPad for Choices & Connections, 2e combines an interactive e-book, integrated videos, and ready-made assessment options curated into easy-to-assign units inside one convenient learning program. The second version of LaunchPad also includes new in-class activities for students to interact more with course materials, and with each other.
