Cookie clicker first ascension

Rlimu's Clicker Optimizer Cookies is a web application for optimizing your Clicker cookie experience. Optimizer to give you useful information on how to make cookies more efficient. How to use the basic idea of optimization is to configure the equivalent for all building models and upgrades and give advice on what to buy next. The easiest way to use Optimizer is to simply open the Tab, create an order, and buy recommended upgrades by optimizing. Alternatively, you can track columns, values, and buy columns with the highest values. One important column to pay attention to in the creation order is Safe. In other words, you should not buy a building unless you have at least that many cookies to avoid reducing the maximum number of cookies you can get from getting lucky golden cookies! Meanwhile, Gold Cookie Frenzy is in effect. After receiving enough cookies, you can use the following cookies: You may want to reset your game. If you have enough cookies to be made you can get a heavenly chip which will increase your CPS by 2% each for your first preference, you may wait until at least 20 quadrillion cookies are made or so to get 200 heavenly chips. The only way to reach the high CPS number at the right time is to give the setup to get more heavenly chips. Heaven Chip Calculator You can use the calculator below to determine the number of cookies required for a certain amount of heavenly chips or the number of cookies you can get from a certain amount of cookies all made. Please note that you can also import your logs to the save view to see how heavenly chips you can get from the reset. What is the value? The most important data provided by Optimizer is in the Value column, it is most important to determine what to buy next, even if the percentage is not all the information about what it means. In short, the value is the number of seconds needed to buy a building or upgrade and pay back compared to a building with the lowest calculated value. The basis for the calculation is laid out in the reddit post here, the value is displayed as a percentage instead of seconds, since it is the value that is most useful for comparison. The basic idea is that if you are comparing two buildings, the best to buy them in order, buy both of them in a small amount of time. With a little bit of math, we get a value that can be compared to other buildings to determine the effectiveness of relatives together. Optimizer does not require all upgrades, since there are no relevant or easily measurable results in calculations made by optimizer. How to upgrade some gray? A grey upgrade means you have to buy another building or upgrade to unlock that upgrade. Hovering over the lock icon shows the upgrade requirements. Please note that the optimization tool includes the price and the increase in the desired building and the upgrade to the price and cps increase of the upgrade. Optimizer assumes the upgrades and towers (or upgrades) needed to unlock a single purchased upgrade. In other words, when optimized, it is recommended that you buy an upgrade, the lock will still tell you to buy any upgrades and towers (or upgrades) needed to unlock it. Please note that all columns in the creation sequence also account for the fact that upgraded purchases must be purchased otherwise first. Why do I get a BAD CSRF token when I try to import it to Optimizer? Import from external websites to Optimizer is not located directly for security reasons. However, there is a way to import your notes from external websites. See the website api for more information, change the full Changelog is available at Changelog Acknowledgements, some icon ikonza.com. See sources shared after the first ascension The ascension screen can be accessed by the Legacy button, which is located below the Info button. If you access a certain number of cookies (about 100 in a louder tone), depending on the number of cookies you have baked, you will get a heavenly chip and prestige level when ascending (at a ratio of 1.1), the total number of prestige levels you will have after ascending as much as the cube root of the total number of trillion cookies you have baked all the time. Heavenly chips are used in the ascension screen to purchase heavenly upgrades which are permanent throughout the ascension and provide various benefits to each prestige level to a permanent +1% CPS, although the power of your prestige must be unlocked first in each playthrough by purchasing some upgrades. The number beside the 'Legacy' button shows the number of heavenly chips and the level of prestige you will receive when ascending. There are many achievements associated with ascension. See below for the full list. In addition, the Ascension screen also allows you to enter Challenge mode when reset, you will hear heavenly effects as well. Upgrading you purchased here will not be deleted (unless you wipe your notes or use a cheat).
