A successful year

Ngiti, which means smile in Filipino, promotes the access to education and health for the children in Bogó in the Philippines.

2022 has been Ngiti most successful year, not only focusing on the education of the children but improving access to an improved health system. Our main projects have been the improvement of the neonatology department in Bogó Provincial Public Hospital by increasing the number of beds from 4 to 6. This is a major impact for the newborns, and we are heading into changing in the good direction the hospital in the coming years.

Founded back in 2016, by Shiela Fontanoza and myself, Ngiti seeks to improve the efficiency of already existing, but insufficient support services in primary schools of Bogó. For the past 6 years, we mainly focused on the education of children, helping more than 5000 children in 3 schools in Bogó. We built this year 2 new classrooms, one of kindergarten and one of Grade 4, increasing our total to 13 classrooms in total since the start of Ngiti.

I would personally like to thank all the donators that have made these projects possible and all the volunteers that have been helping throughout the years.

“ THANK YOU TO ALL OUR DONATORS AND VOLUNTEERS ”

Thank you for staying and believing in us all these years.

It has been an awesome year for NGITI.

There were a few hiccups along the way, but we made it through the horizon with resilience and perseverance. Our school children have been our number one priority, and they are the reason why NGITI has been thriving all these years. This year we've unlocked 3 projects in different stations. We built two kindergarten classrooms, one in Nailon and BCS 3, and donated maternity equipment for the hospital in Bogu, which we considered a "special project," and hopefully we can venture and extend more, not just building classrooms but also uplifting and helping the community. In the upcoming years, the foundation will be working on building 4 classrooms in BCS 3, and through that, we need a lot of support for this project to come into life. I know that this is another challenge in gathering all the funds and resources, but I believe that we can do this because we have an amazing team working behind us, and I could not thank you enough for staying and believing in us all these years. To the people who have been with us the whole year round, I am grateful for keeping the faith and just continuing pushing forward for the benefit of our school children and community.

"High expectations are the outward manifestation of your belief and hope in someone"-Kim Bearden

Just a quote I want to live by to motivate us. Despite all the hurdles and stumbles, we know that we can do it if we support each other and our students as well.
