

NES Health BioEnergetics System

NES Health BioEnergetics is a cloud-based health care system that provides information and recommendations to the user based on a computer analysis of that user's energy field. It does not claim to treat or cure any condition.

Practitioners like myself purchase the system and undertake extensive training. We also have access to ongoing training via a practitioners' FaceBook page, regular podcasts and video presentations.

However, the system is designed to automate the energy assessment process in ways that enable the user (you) to understand and apply the findings of your scan with minimal input from a practitioner. The way this is done is that each element of the scan is accompanied by a 'help' file that explains the readings and their significance. There are also links on many of the pages to additional educational content. Over time, you can benefit from becoming familiar with this.

To make the system even more user friendly, there is a 'Recommendations' page. This summarises the results of the scan into five recommended Infoceuticals that you can order and purchase yourself from a menu link on that page.

So why would you need a practitioner?

- A practitioner is familiar with the system so can give you an overview and orientation to make the most of it in the easiest and fastest way.
- A practitioner has been trained in the system so can suggest optimum ways to interpret the extensive information including how to prioritise and implement the findings.
- A practitioner has additional training that can be pertinent to interpreting the different pages. They may have specialist information relevant to specific pages.
- The practitioner can take the role of a coach who holds you accountable, who challenges you with questions, who encourages you to persevere, who celebrates with you in your victories and who can be relied upon to listen to your story.

Here's how NES Health BioEnergetics works in my practice

1. We have an initial meeting, usually by phone. We each get our questions answered. You get your questions answered and I get to know what health outcomes you are looking for and what you have tried already. By mutual agreement we move to the next stage.
2. I set up a free account for you in the NES Health Portal. For this I need: your name, your street address, your telephone number, your email address, your D.O.B., your gender. I also need your agreement that NES Health does not claim to treat or cure any specific condition. It provides an energetic assessment of your energy fields.
3. I send you a link to download a piece of software to do the scans (BioSync) and access your account in the NES Health portal where you can purchase a scanner (Shop-Product Categories-Devices Human Use). You download the BioSync software and buy your scanner.
4. You do a scan of your energy field. All instructions are provided by the system.

5. The system automatically notifies me that the scan is available in the NES Health portal. We can both access the scan. I have set up my system so that clients have immediate access to their scans.
6. We make a time to meet using Zoom, an online meeting place. I send you a link before the meeting. You do not need to have your own Zoom system.
7. We spend about an hour going over your scan, considering the implications and answering your questions. (Please be prepared to take notes.) Using Zoom, we can look at your scan together on my shared screen. I help you to make connections between the scan readings and what is going on in your life at that time. Because this is an energetic scan, it can be 'eerily accurate' as to what is happening for you. At the end of the hour, you should have decided on two or three clear action points to carry forward, including answering your questions about the Infoceuticals that the scan recommends.
8. You order and pay for your own Infoceuticals via the portal. They are sent direct to you and are usually delivered within a couple of days.
9. You start to take the Infoceuticals daily and monitor changes. Changes may be physical relating to how you feel in your body, emotional relating to your mood, or mental relating to what you find yourself thinking about; and of course, they can be behavioural, for example, you are sleeping better.

How much does this cost?

There is no charge for your account, for the software that enables you to scan and for the scans themselves and access to the information relating to the scans.

However, you will need to buy a scanner, which you can do through the Portal. The current cost is AUD$180.00.

You will need to buy up to five infoceutical bottles each month. You will find full details of the pricing in the Shop section of the portal. The bottles are $17 each plus GST plus postage.

I charge $130 for the initial Zoom scan consultation and $120 for each subsequent consultation. This payment can be made by direct bank transfer or via PayPal.

I recommend that you scan yourself once a month, though you can certainly scan more frequently. However, the software does not allow daily scans. This is because the scan itself has a slightly therapeutic effect on the body field and it takes at least five days for the field to settle down.

If you are taking the Infoceuticals at the recommended dosage of 15 drops daily, then the bottles will last about three weeks. During the fourth week, your body has a chance to integrate the changes that have been taking place over the first three weeks.

NES Health BioEnergetics works best when you make it part of your lifestyle and habitual behaviour. You should aim to commit to a trial period of 6 months.
