The Magic was released in 2013. Rhonda Byrne gained notoriety after appearing on the Oprah Winfrey Show, if you demonstrate her message of looks, it will provide for the achievement of dreams. Magic Review, by Rhonda Byrne: I have to say from the beginning that I am a big fan of Rhonda Byrne's work; But I I am a fan because her books and film have literally changed my life. Although I was always a natural form And optimistic person, now I will describe myself as a happy person (most of the time! We cannot and are not always meant to be joyful). Happiness comes from knowing that absolutely nothing is impossible for me and my life, from knowing the power of goodness and love, knowing that there is nothing 'happens' to me, and by knowing that I can influence any change of circumstances that I desire for my life. Moreover, the mystery led to my now strong spiritual belief — one knowing that this physical world with its miraculously precise laws is not an accident of evolution, and that there is too much for life, the world, and our senses from our place in it would have us believe. So, it's no surprise to me that I loved magic. It was, though, a surprise to me that I love it as much as I did and do. In fact, I can confidently say that magic is my favorite of Rhonda Byrne books so far, and, I really think, is her best book. I also felt that power, her most recent book before Magic, was better than mystery, so in a way I think Rhonda books are getting better and better. Amazon.coml started on my journey of magic at the beginning of April. I wasn't sure what to think about this book but decided to give it a shot. The first lesson of magic was practice, counting your blessings. Everyday you make a list of ten blessings and write why you are grateful for them. Thank you magic words three times after each one that loads them or read in your head and say as you call them. This process was difficult for me to stick with 100% I would accept due to the fact I was not on a regular programme and not due to a morning person. I did however manage it most days and found that this practice alone was a very powerful one for me. Two days you add your night practice of Magic Rock. This is where you find an object (a rock) and make it live in a place that you will often see. Every night before bedtime you go to grab your magic rock and think back on your day and say thank you for the best thing that happened to you during the day. I really liked this practice and I still practice it one daily. I found this a very easy and enjoyable one. - PureGoddess university got a pure pleasure to read this book and it really makes me feel so good. What surprised me most is that it helped me put a lot into perspective, especially in regards to my past. Over the years I've relied on the wrong people, which was meant to be there for me and has been the benefit of time and time again to go down. As a result (unintentionally) I've spent a lot of time regretting many decisions and blaming myself for making bad choices. For me this book enabled me to feel that That I was 'killing myself about things' and helped me change. And 'let go' of guilt, regret and anger. It helped me recognize the good that came from each experience, and see how they had shaped my character and personality. Some of my greatest strengths and characteristics are the result of some of my worst experiences. I felt incredibly grateful to see things like this and I don't regret anything anymore – I focus on the great that emerges from each experience. And believe me, whatever your experience is; There will be something positive that comes from him. Whether it leads you to take a particular career path or whether it gives you the right to try new things - they are what you can call silver linings. - From The Magic to NoodleChipanda Byrne Quote: When you talk about money, relationships, any difficulties with illness, or even the benefits of your business are reduced, you're not talking about what you love. When you talk about a bad incident in the news, or someone or a situation that offends or disappoints you, you are not talking about what you love. Talking about the bad day you had, getting late for an appointment, getting caught up in traffic, or just missing all what you're not loving. There are very small things that happen every day; If you get caught up in talking about what you don't love, every one of those little things brings more struggle and hardship to your life. You have to talk about the good news of the day. Talk about the appointment that went well. Talk about how you love being on time. Talk about how good it is to be full of health. Talk about the profits you want your business to get. Talk about situations and conversations you had in your day that went well. You have to talk about what you love, bring what you love. - Rhonda Byrne, magic when you wake up in the morning, giving thanks for the morning light, for your life and power. Thank you for your food and the joy of living. If you see no reason to give thanks, the mistake is with yourself. - Rhonda Byrne, Magic Magic
