Use some of these combos to get great damageDuring battles, it pays to know which combos will give the most damage when using them. Check out the list below to find out which combos you'll use the most. These moves produce different levels of damage, so take note of them: - Huge hit Combo: Left, Right, Left - Mega Hit Combo: Left, Left, Right - Ultra Hit: Left, Right, Up, Down, Left2. Say goodbye to your master weapon/ArmorOnce you will completely upgrade any of your weapons/armor to Master status, you will no longer get XP for their use. It pays for the use of all kinds of different weapons in order to master them all. Once you get them at master level, sell them to the merchant. You will get even more currency for mastered weapons and armor. The double sale price you get is well worth upgrading your weapons/armor for. 3. Try to equip the Magic RingsModojo.com noted that the magic rings are well worth equipping: Be sure to equip the ring. These powerful jewelry allow you to throw different forms of magic that help your character and hurt the enemy. Wait until the magic ball in the top right right is full, click and then trace the necessary shape to throw the desired magic.4. Get your gold and other items after hitting by doing it... Modojo.com also provided a method that should be important to players who kill a lot: Getting destroyed? After death, consider choosing too hard? Option. Developers will let you save The gold, chips, items and XP you've collected, competing in the less difficult Awakening to increase the strength of your character. Block and Dodge at the right momentsJemative battles, blocking blocking Dodging should be an integral part of your offensive/defensive strategy. When the enemy comes at you with a combo, you have to defend and dodge the first two attacks. Change your blocking/dodging moves so you can get a few hits on the enemy. Parrying on the 3rd/4th attack of whoever you are in will give you the ability to do more damage during the combo. Having an unpredictable attack/defense game plan will get you away. Page 2 Whenever you're going to go against Titan, make sure you pay attention to its stats. Going against Titan, which is immune to a particular element, means that you have to fight it with the opposite element. For example, you should equip the Sword of Fire, the Ring of Fire and the Ice Shield if you are fighting off Titan, which is immune to ice. It also pays off the other way around. 7. Compare your Gear before equipping themAs you are looking to equip with new gear, you should always press the Compare button to see if its worth investing in. Choosing the right weapons, steering wheel, shields, armor and magic rings means you have to compare it to other items in each gear class. Watch out for what is stronger and weaker so as not to go into battle unprepared. 8. Grinding to experience the right WayThe Game Wiki page points to a method that can help you get the experience much faster grinding: An alternative way (and in a less annoying way, according to some people) to cycle grind to choose the option to fit the elevator once you've defeated a big enemy. This will bring you face to face with the Dark Knight, the enemy before the King God. If you lose it intentionally, you will be given the opportunity to Save and restart the lock. Choosing this will lead you to return to the beginning of the castle, but all the experience, gold, items or potions you purchased in the last trip will still be with you. Just repeating this process over and over again can be very helpful in terms of experience and gold. Here's how to earn Battle ChipsThe game's official website is now in the post-apocalyptic Infinity Blade setting, where without death rule, money still makes the world go round. With Infinity Blade III, the economy is expanding to include not only gold, which is earned on fighting enemies and opening chests, but also combat chips that are earned by completing goals and combat missions. The gold you earn through the game is used to buy weapons, armor, shields - basically anything that can be equipped with an Isa or Siris. Combat chips are new to Infinity Blade III and are used to purchase materials that include potions, ingredients, gems, prize wheels, and treasure cards. Gold you can find in chests or even in the open, but how do you earn combat One way is to unlock the skill of combat tasks. With this skill unlocked, during some fights against the Titans, you will be given additional tasks such as titanium with magic. Doing these tasks brings you some chips. You can also participate in Trials, ClashMobs and Aegis tournaments. Don't forget to check out our feature on ClashMobs 2.0 for more information about them. The easiest way to earn chips quickly is by completing goals. Goals range from simple to huge tasks that can take minutes or weeks. Some goals can only be earned once, but others have multiple levels, getting harder every time you complete them... and gradually more profitable.10. Check out some of the in-Game AchievementsThe game's official website also lists some of the goals you'll need to complete to purchase more chips: Gotcha! Jensen, also known as Master Blacksmith, is an NPC who can be recruited during Infinity Blade III. Jensen's father forged Siris with his first sword. In Act II, Siris commands TEL to search for him, looking for the right weapon, but TEL tells Siris that Jensen was captured by a fake Raider. He must be saved from the abomination of Hayne's quantum identity pattern during isa's mission. Jensen plays an important role in Infinity Blade III, as he was responsible for changing the Redeemer so that he could erase Galat's memories. After the rescue, he will remain in the Shelter and increase the level of weapons, shields, helmets, armor and rings mastered by the player for a certain amount of gold.
