Self-Affirmation

I am a child of God, created in His image to reveal His nature, character, and glory on this earth. God has designed and blessed me to have dominion on this earth, and by His grace, I am becoming who He designed me to be.

My past and my mistakes do not define me. I have learned from them, and I am progressing undeterred to God's great destiny for me.

My creator created me to be successful, confident, and powerful. And so, I am. I trust God; therefore, I am not skeptical but optimistic and excited about the future.

Today will be a productive day. I will draw closer to my goals, and no one can stop me. I am above the thoughts that seek to hold me captive and make me angry and fearful.

I forgive myself for my failures and mistakes. And I forgive all others for their failures and mistakes. Especially those who have hurt me. I was designed to overcome therefore I will overcome all that is against me in Jesus' name.

I refuse to compare myself to others because I am unique and special. I will accept every challenge life brings. I will finish what I start and let go of what I can't finish. I am grateful for life, so I refuse to waste it. Therefore, I will maximize every moment as if it is my last.

I am not afraid to fall or to fail in my journey to God's great plan for me. And I am not afraid to succeed and be a blessing to the world. But I refuse to give up.

I accept the power God has given me. And the limitations too. Happiness is a choice, and today I chose to be happy. Although I do not always see or feel God's presence, I know that I am never alone because God said He will never leave me nor forsake me. And because "in His presence there is fulness of joy," I am joyful and exceedingly strong for "the joy of the Lord is my strength."

Today is not a good day, it's a great day! An exceptionally great day!
